FOSTER'S WEATHER PREDICTIONS.

Forecasts of Storm Waves and Meteorological Changes.

My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from 20th to 24th. This will be a very severe storm in and east of the Mississippi valley from about 21st to 24th, and about the same time dangerous storms will occur on the Pacific ocean, Atlantic ocean, in southern Europe, middle Asia, East India islands and West India islands.

During the previous week tropical hurricanes will have organized in the southern parts of the north Pacific and the north Atlantic, and from 21st to 24th, including these days, all voyages by lake and ocean should be avoided.

The exact location of these destructive storms cannot now be stated, and the best information now possible is the dates within which everybody should be on the lookout for destructive tropical hurricanes.

I have repeatedly given warning of five great storm periods for this year, three of which will be near Sept. 21, Oct. 16 and Nov. 14. These are also great earthquake periods.

The next storm wave will reach the Pacific coast about Sept. 24, cross the west of Rockies country by close of 25th, great central valleys 26th to 28th and eastern states 29th. Following this disturbance the cool wave will bring unusually low temperature, lower in the eastern than in the western states, and the cool wave rainfall will be considerably above the average.

Close observers will have noticed that rains occur in front of both the cool and the warm waves, and that rains usually occur about one day before or one day after the dates of my storm waves. The crest of the warm wave is expected near the storm wave dates, while rainfalls occur near the changes from cool to warm or warm to cool. The storm wave date is taken as the guide as to all other weather changes, and as this event is earlier or later, so will the other changes occur.

Warm wave will cross the west of Rockies country about the 24th, great central valley 26th, eastern states 28th. Cool wave will cross the west of Rockies country about 27th, great central valleys 30th, eastern states Oct. 1.

Killing frosts in the corn belt and northern portions of the cotton belt will accompany the cool wave of 27th to Oct. 1. A general forecast of October weather will be given in my next bulletin. That month will be full of important weather events.

Important Experiments.

At the Altoona shops the Pennsylvania railroad company is building three mogul compound locomotives, which will be identical in every respect except the parts which control the compound feature. The cylinders will be of the same proportions. One will have the Lindner starting valve, one will have the Richmond locomotive works intercepting valve and one will be built with the Pittsburg locomotive works arrangement for regulating the admission of steam in starting. It is the intention when the engines are finished to put them all into the same kind of service and subject them to a lengthened test under conditions as nearly uniform as possible. The decision to select these types of compounds was arrived at on account of the experience with engines compounded according to the design named.

AN EXCHANGE says: "What is needed in this country to-day, more than anything else, is not more citizens, but better citizens. We have too many mere voters, while good citizens who have the courage to oppose whatever is inimical to the general good are far too few. Never in our history has the need been greater for men without fear and without reproach, who dare stand against all evil and say and do the right thing under all circumstances, no matter who or which party gets hurt. We need officials who care more for principle than for place, and who can neither be coaxed, flattered, coerced or bribed into doing a wrong act."

THIS is the crown of summer. The day of the blossom is over and the clematis twines its tendrils, the lace flower nods white in the meadow and the bee wings his last spoils home; the aster and the golden rod stand guard at the wayside and the banners of sumac are the standards in the ranks to whom nature has sounded the call of retreat; there are odors and perfumes from orchards and vine and the sunflower stands tall in the sunshine; the hours are ripe in fulfilment of the promises made in the spring and with grapes in the cluster and corn in the sheath both barrels and barns have their fill—and the trolley wheel, too, has taken a drop on the midnight horn. Now let the cold wave snap the gems from the crown.

MORTON AND McKINLEY.

They Make Short Speeches to the Citizens of Atlanta.

Atlanta, Pa., Sept. 22.—Gov. Atkinson dined a half dozen governors and and twenty other guests at the Capitol City club last night. An unusual incident occurred during the dinner.

At first a small group of men assembled out side the club house on Peach tree street and called for Governor Morton, of New York. The crowd grew rapidly and Gov. Morton left the dinner party, stepped to a window and made a short speech was loudly applauded. As he returned to the dinner party the crowd yelled for McKinley who they knew was inside.

"What did you say, Morton? Words, nothing but words?" asked Gov. McKinley, jestingly.

"Some might think so perhaps," replied Morton. "I told them that you were an eloquent orator, and would speak for me.'

"Then I shall," responded McKinley, for the cries for the Ohian were now increasing. He rose from the table and accompanied by four other governors, walked out and spoke for several minutes to the satisfaction of the crowd. He was followed by Gen. H. Porter, Gov. Atkinson, of Georgia; Gen. O. Howard, Gov. Wertz, of New Jersey; Gov. McIntyre, of Colorado, all of whom were loudly cheered. Each speaker eulogized Atlanta and the south.

A Mutually Advantageous Bargain.

New York, Septemaer 28.—President Fowler, of the New York Ontario and Western Railroad company says: "The sale of the two large coal breakers and 900 acres of anthracite coal lands near Scranton, containing between 11,000,000 and 12,000,000 tons of coal, made by John Jermyn to the Johnstown Coal company which includes an arrangement between the Ontario and Western and the New York, Susquehanna and Western roads. The Susquehanna and Western receives a considerable sum of money and the Ontario and Western secures large additions to its coal tonnage, amounting to 300,000 tons annually for many years to come. The transaction will be of benefit to the Ontario and the Susquehanna companies and is looked upon with satisfaction by the officers and directors of both.

The Shakers have made a great hit Their Digestive Cordial is said to be the most successful remendy for stomach troubles ever introduced. It immediately relieves all pain and distress after eating, builds up the feeble system and makes the weak strong.

The fact is, foods properly digested are better than so-called tonics. The Cordial not only contains food already digested, but is a digester of other foods. Food that is not digested does more harm than good. People who use the Cordial insure the digestion of what food they eat and in this way get the benefit of it and grow strong.

The little pamphlets which the Shakers have sent druggists for free distribution, contain much interesting information on the subject of dyspepsia.

Shot His Mother's Assailant.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Fred Reige, of 326 West Forty-seventh street, was shot and killed by Robert Schondaube at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Reige was beating Schondaube's mother. Mrs. Schondaube is a widow and claims to have been engaged to marry Reigeand to have given him $1,400 recently. A dispute arose over the money to-day and Reige struck the woman in the face. Her son Robert immediately drew a revolver and sent five bullets into Reige's body with the above result. Schondaube is in jail.

JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE.

Mrs. Mordrex Cenedy Slays a Young Man Who Assaults Her.

Wellsboro, Pa., Sept. 23.—The postborough of Tioga, in this (Tioga) county, had another sensational murder last Saturday night. The facts in the case were brought out at the coroner's inquest, which was held last evening.

From these it appears that four young men, Grant Shellman, Daniel Gee, Peter Gee and William Mosher, became intoxicated on Saturday evening and terrorized the town. Just before midnight they drove out to the country home of Mordrex Cenedy. They caroused about the house, drinking and intimidating Mr. Cenedy, who was sick and unable to cope with them. Finally they entered the bed room of Mrs. Cenedy, who was also ill in bed, and made indecent proposals to her. She managed to reach a bureau, and securing a revolver, ordered the intruders away.

Three of them left the room, but Mosher, in his drunken frenzy, grappled with the thoroughly frightened woman and was shot through the body, the bullet entering his breast and severing the spinal cord. His companions rushed into the room, after the shot had been fired and found Mosher lying on the floor moaning, "She has shot me through." They removed him to Dr. Brown's office at Tioga where he died in less than twenty minutes after his arrival there.

Mrs. Cenedy testified before coroner's jury last evening that the pistol was accidentally discharged in the struggle. After hearing all the evidence the jury returned a verdict that it was a case of justifiable homicide and that Mosher came to his death by the shot of a pistol in the hands of Mrs. Cenedy, while she was defending her life, her honor and her home.

A Great Coal Vein.

Among the largest and most advantageously located coal mining properties in the world are those of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company. In 1894 the company mined 7,415,000 tons, and it receives a large amount annually from royalties on leased collieries. In nearly all the locations where the mines are operated, the coal is obtained in such abundance and with such small expenditure of labor that the operators are extremely [illegible] in the work of getting the coal [illegible] place in the [illegible] cars for market, but it is safe to say that there are few places in the world where great quantities of coal are so readily obtainable as on this side.

At Shenandoah Stupping a thin crust only of land has to be removed when a vein of coal fifty feet thick and of indefinite extent horizontally is reached. The coal is taken to the breakers at the colliery on the other side of the mountain through tunnels at the base of the vein. This stupping has only been worked a short time, but a half million tons have been taken therefrom.—Scientific American.

The New Cup Challenger.

London, September 23.—Charles Day Rose, who recently sent to the American cup committee of the New York Yacht club an informal challenge for a race for the cup next year, was seen today by a representative of the United Press. Mr. Rose informed the reporter that a formal challenge had been sent through the Royal Victoria Yacht club, but beyond this would say nothing.

The representative at Ryde, Isle of Wight, of the United Press, telegraphs that the preliminary challenge was cabled to Percy Thellusson, secretary of the Royal Victoria Yacht club. Its purport was that he was authorized by Mr. Rose to challenge a series of races for the cup, take place in 1896, and that the conditions of the challenge by mail. The challenger is to be named the "Distant Shore." Her length on the load water line will probably be eighty-nine feet and she will be cutter rigged.

A Ghastly Tragedy.

Oskaloosa, Ia., September 23.—M. E. Stinson, a traveling man, and his wife, were found dead from bullet wounds in bed together at the A[illegible] house yesterday. The double crime was committed by Stinson. The woman, who was only 20 years old, was recognized as Miss Arta Moore, whose wealthy parents live at Panora, a few miles from DesMoines. She was a member of the senior class at Grinnell college and it was not known that she was married. The discovery was made today, however, that she was secretly married to Stinson, October 14, 1892, by Rev. H. D. Crawford, the record being complete.

The murderer's home was in Fairfield, Iowa, where his father was formerly a Rock Island railroad agent. He came here Friday and visited friends while his wife got permission from the college president to visit here. Stinson met her at the dept and registered as man and wife. The shots were heard by the police, who rushed to the room, but both were dead. He had shot her and himself while they lay side by side.

AS THE FOOL.

Shot In a Quarrel Over a Game of Cards.

West Chester, Pa., Sept. 22.—"Boys let this be a warning to you. Good bye." These were the words of George Derey spoken at an early hour this morning, just before he fainted away after being shot by Frank J. Johnson. The two men had been playing cards at the home of Derey in the eastern end of West Chester. About midnight there was trouble between them, one having accused the other of cheating. Johnson drew a revolver, and, pointing it at Derey so that the muzzle was not two feet from his breast, pulled the trigger. The bullet lodged in Derey's body, a short distance above the heart. The report of the pistol attracted a number of young men, and it was to them that Derey said good-bye.

As soon as he had shot Derey, Johnson caught up the money from the table and ran out of the house. He passed several men running to the house and called: "I am off to Philadelphia." Derey was taken to the hospital where he now lies in a precarious condition. To-day Chief of Police Jefferis left for Philadelphia to look for Johnson. He was seen running out of town on the Philadelphia road and it is supposed that he is now hiding in some of the resorts of the city.

Wilkesbarree's Water Famine.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., September 24.—The water famine has not yet been relieved, and today the situation is, if anything, worse. The pumping of water from the river, it was thought, would bring relief, but the pipes have proven too small and one of the pumps has played out. Owing to the unusual drain made on the supply of the Wilkesbarre Water company by the Crystal Spring company today, the patrons of the former company living on elevations were short of a full supply. Another fire engine was set at work today pumping water in the mains, making three in all, which affords slight relief. A special meeting of city councils was held tonight and it was decided to take radical action against the water companies unless relief is afforded at once.

[illegible]ipe Strawberries.

"[illegible]own some genuine fully developed strawberries, at Grocer Emery's store [illegible] evening. They were grown by Michael Stover, of South Philipsburg, and are raised on plants that yielded a large amount of berries in their regular season. Mr. Stover gathered over a hundred quarts during the summer from the same plants, and if the frost keeps off a week, he will have at least half that amount again, and we learn that they will be sold at Emery's. That is indeed wonderful, such a thing as second crop of strawberries in one season is very remarkable, to say the least, in this climate. Go and see the berries on exhibition in Emery's show case.—Journal.

IF another slump comes along in the iron market the Carnegie interests will at least be well prepared to meet it. The Braddock mill are now working on structural steel contracts that aggregate one million tons and this will run them well into the year 1896 should no other contracts come in. But increased prices, now above the $16 mark and dangerously near the figure where foreign competition is liable to step in and stock the market, do not appear to arrest the prosperous and growing condition of the trade. The week closes with almost unexampled activity in all lines and with furnaces in blasts that have been idle ten years. This is especially true of the South the Alabama and Tennessee centres accepting among other things some large orders from Mexico.

The State Medical Council.

Harrisburg, Sept. 24.—The state medical council decided to-day that the next examinations should be held December 17. It was also agreed to accept the licenses issued to physicians and surgeons in New Jersey. Heretofore only those of New York have been accepted. After March, 1896, all applicants will be required to pass an examination in arithmetic, grammar, goegraphy, orthography, American and English history. A diploma from any college, academy or high school will be accepted in lieu of the preliminary examination.

THE cable letters from London tell how the Englishmen are making much of Americans this year. They can afford to on the bond deal alone, to say nothing of the great revival of British manufacturing and trade consequent upon the passage of the Gorman-Wilson bill. Englishmen would be ungrateful dogs not to coddle the innocents they pluck.—Tribune, Salt Lake, Utah, August 18, 1895.

KILLED THE BOY.

A Reading "Spotter" Ends the Life of Young Shofield.

Norristown, Pa., Sept. 20.—Harry Shofield 16 years old, of West Manayunk, was shot through the head this afternoon and died in a few minutes. An unknown man, who is supposed to be a traveling salesman did the shooting. He disappeared and has not yet been arrested. The shooting took place at Rose Glen, near here. Shofield was throwing stones and one of the missiles struck the man. He pulled a revolver and fired at the boy and killed him.

It was learned later that the shooting was done by Charles Henderson, a "spotter" for the Reading Railroad company. It seems that boys who had been stealing rides on freight trains have been stoning the houses along the road. Henderson occupied a room in a house at Rose Glen, and he was in it to-day when a coal train with Shofield and some other boys sitting upon one of the cars passed. Henderson ran to the window of the house, and pointing his revolver at the boys, fired, with the result of killing Shofield. From the testimony of eye witnesses the boys were not throwing coal at the time of the shooting. It is probable that Henderson did not intend to shoot any of the boys, but only fired to frighten them. Henderson has disappeared.

Will March to Washington.

According to a special report from Pottsville, Pa., the five companies of First Defenders—Logan Guards, of Lewistown; National Light Infantry and Washington Artillerists, of Pottsville; Ringgold Artillery, of Reading, and Allen Rifles, of Allentown—will, on April 8, 1896, go over again their old march from Harrisburg to Washington, D. C., through Baltimore. The only time that they made this trip was in 1861 thirty-five years ago, when they made that harrowing march so fraught with dangers and difficulties in response to President Lincoln's call for troops to defend the imperiled National Capitol. This action was the result of a suggestion made by H. A. Eisenbise, of Reading, president of the First Defenders' National association.

"Little Bopeep

had lost [illegible] sheep and couldn't tell [illegible] them." So the old nursery rhyme says, and it goes on to bid her "leave them alone, and they'll come home and bring their tails behind them." All this may be true of lost sheep, but if you have lost your health, you cannot afford to leave that alone. It will not come back of its own accord. Some people that they never bother about colds. They "let them go the way they came." Alas, too often the victim fills a consumptive's grave. Remember that Dr. Pierces Golden Medical Discovery removes eruptions, blotches, pimples ulcers, scrofumors humors and incplent consumption which is simply scrofula of the lungs. It enriches the boold, making it pure and the whole system new.

Miller Doubtless Tells the Truth.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 24.—N. Miller the defendant in the trial now going on in this city for the murder of the Hungarians by blowing up a shanty on the Wilkesbarre mountain on October 18, 1894, was placed on the stand in his own behalf today. He denied the story of Frank Shaffer, the accomplice who confessed, and was not shaken on cross-examination. J. Bird, J. Miller, E. Brace and Sarah Miller the other prisoners charged with the crime, gave similar testimony. There are several more witnesses to be examined, and it is hardly likely the case will be given to the jury before to-morrow night.

Want Coke Workers to Resume Work

Scottdale, Pa., Sept. 24.—The coke worker's convention here to-day passed a resolution stating that the operators had promised an advance in wages when the price of coke advanced and calling all men on strike to return to work until October 11. The labor officials expect by that date the price of coke will be advanced. Notices have been posted at the Charlotte furnace, giving the ten hour men a voluntary advance in wages of 10 per cent. The advance will date from September 16.

IN 1892 the farmers were informed by Cleveland and his orators that Democratic legislation would insure a dollar per bushel for wheat. They enacted the legislation and wheat dropped to the lowest price on record. It is almost as profitable to raise turnips now as it is to raise wheat, and that is one reason the farmers will no longer vote for the party that deceived them.

Nearly everyone needs a good tonic at this season. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true tonic and blood purifier.

MODERN DROMIOS.

How Senator Baker's Resemblance to a Juror Made Trouble.

Media, Pa., Sept. 23.—Senator J. M. Baker, was called before the court to-day to make answer to a charge of unprofessional conduct as an attorney. It was all due to the remarkable resemblance one of the jurors bears to the senator. Senator Baker was counsel for Charles Dixon, charged with disturbing a religious meeting. The grand jury ignored the bill and put the costs on the prosecutors, Daniel Stewart and Thomas Foreman. They were surprised at the jury's finding, and said that Senator Baker was the cause of it. They made an affidavit stating that Baker had gone into the grand jury room and cross-examined the witnesses for the commonwealth. The senator, when called before the court, made a very hot denial of the charge.

Church Trustee Foreman said that Mr. Baker was not telling the truth, and James W. Gray, the foreman of the jury, was sent for.

He said Mr. Baker had not examined the witnesses in the Dixon case, and was not in the jury room.

This result did not satisfy the men who had the cost put on them, and the entire panel of grand jurors were brought into court. They had all sustained Senator Baker in his statement, and Juror Deal, of Gernwood, who resembles the round senator, said he was the person who had questioned the witnesses. The prosecutors then saw they had blundered.

World Wide Endeavor.

Ben Franklin once made the statement, "Schools teach us the rudiments of language, books teach us how to think: therefore, no man is truly educated unless he is a reader of books."

There is such a vast amount of trashy stuff being poured into the market at the present time that it is a relief and pleasure to pick up a new book that is of value, interest, wholesome, pure, and true. Such a book is "World Wide Endeavor," the latest and best work written by that well-known person who has been called "Father Endeavor" Clark. It is not a dry statement of facts, but the story of the birth, life, and progress of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, which was organized fourteen years ago by a small band of earnest, faithful Christians, and to-day the membership of this wonderful organization numbers over two and one-half millions. Each event from the beginning of the movement is taken up and described by a master of language, who holds the reader entranced as he wends his way along the path of its history, following carefully each event, in this and foreign lands, including the great international conventions; concluding with the great convention held July, 1895, at Boston, where over fifty-six thousand registered delegates were assembled, coming from every State in the Union, and from many foreign countries.

It is a volume that every one of our readers who are members of a Christian Endeavor Society will be glad to possess, for it contains facts in connection with the work of the organization that has never before appeared in print. It is a valuable addition to literature. It is not a denominational book, and it will find a hearty welcome in the homes of every Christian family. Everybody will read it with equal eagerness and profit.

We are delighted with this grand volume. Perfect and accurate in its story, superb in style, and magnificent in execution. The bindings are sumptuous, as are also its six hundred illustrations in the text, and the many full-page illustrations. The publishers have rightly concluded that such a gem should have a rich setting. It is sold only through agents, and the publishers' advertisement appears in another column.

A Questionable Claim.

Philadelphia, Sept. 23.—Upon a question as to jurisdiction the now famous claim of a descendant of the family of Wm. Penn to the title to old Court House square, in Easton, Pa., came before Justice Shiras and Judges Acheson and Butler, in the United States circuit court of appeals in this city to-day on argument and decision was reserved. It was the suit of Wm. Dugale Stuart, of London, England, William Penn's decendant, against the city of Easton and county of Northampton, of recover ground on which the former court house in Easton was situated.

Wells Drying Up.

Philipsburg Journal: It is said that over in Covington township, Clearfield county, springs have gone dry that have not failed for forty years. In this neighborhood many wells have also failed. John Fleck, the milk man, has to carry his drinking water from town and the water for his stock is transferred in barrels from the Moshannon creek to his dairy.

RUSER BEATEN.

Election of Officers by the State Council Junior American Mechanics.

McKeesport, Pa., Sept. 18.—The election of officers was one of the interesting features of the Junior Order United American Mechanics' convention to-day. It began early in the day. The big fight was for vice state councillor. Rev. D. M. Lichliter, Sharpsburg, was chosen over C. Lang and J. McCreary, J. W. Calver was re-elected treasurer over J. W. Buser. Dr. H. Williams and C. S. Weiss were chosen representatives to the national council over S. B. Mensch, of Philadelphia, and W. Beck, J. R. Culin, T. Gerbig and W. B. Alleger.

Gettysburg was chosen as the next place of meeting. There were 565 councils represented by delegates. Treasurer Calverts's reports showed a balance on hand of $1,120.81, a decrease of $7,009.41 since last year.

The report of State Councillor Crane, which included those of the special deputy state councillors, showed an increase of nineteen councils and 1,200 members in the middle division and an increase of eleven new councils and 951 members in the eastern division. The western diyision, however, has suffered during the year. The total loss of membership in the district will approximate 5,000.

A CERTAIN "crank" in Jersey City seems to be searching the scriptures to "make points" against the women and their attire. He quoted the Prophet Ezekiel as denouncing woe upon women who sew pillows to all armholes. This woe the man sought to apply to women who wear big sleeves, a perversion of meaning which any one who has ever noticed the passage will readily perceive. Now a woe has been pronounced by our biblical friend upon women who wear bloomers, and he cites as his authority the fifth verse of the 22d chapter of Deuteronemy: "The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment; for all that do so are an abomination to the Lord, thy God." The trouble about this woe, says the Baltimore Sun, is that bloomers do not pertain to men. Men do not wear bloomers any more than they wear petticoats or corset covers. The persons at whom Moses aimed this statute are the wife who takes her husband's four-in-hand tie when he wants it himself, and the girl who takes her brother's dress shirt to wear under her josie. But the chief offender against this wise Mosaic law is the woman who metaphorically wears the breeches of the family, which pertain to her husband. The Jersey City man should be careful how he perverts and distorts scripture.

Stylish Autumn Coats.

A double-breasted reefer coat most comfortable and sensible design, is again seen and liked, the only change being that it is a bit longer than it was three years ago. In a rough blue serge with facing of black velvet and large guttapercha buttons the reefer model is very jaunty and well suited to the woman of slender figure. All coat sleeves, while they are full, stand out rather than up, and though the coat itself may be lined with less expensive material, silk is almost invariably used for the sleeves that they may be easy of assumption.

Long coats for traveling or bad weather wear have deep rippling capes attached and usually pointed hoods in addition.

The Eton jacket in black velvet and with fancy buttons upon it—that is either richly cut steel ones or those glittering with Rhinestones—is very much liked and really makes a most stylish toilette if worn with a handsome crepon or silk skirt,

Rates of Postage in 1800.

The following were the rates of postage in this country in the year 1800: Every letter composed of a single sheet of paper conveyed not exceeding forty miles, eight cents; over forty miles and not exceeding 150 miles, twelve and one-half cents; over 150 miles and not exceeding 500 miles, twenty-five cents. Every letter composed of two pieces of paper, double those rates; every letter composed of three pieces of paper, triple those rates; every letter composed of four pieces of paper weighing one ounce, quadruple those rates, and at the rate of a single letter for each ounce any letter or packet may weigh; every ship letter originally received at an office for delivery, with six cents. And there was little change for the better in the rates of postage until the advent of the administration of President Polk.

Facilities for Transportation.

Nothing shows in more striking way the advance which has been made in the civization of the world than the marvelous facilities which have arisen in modern times for the distribution and interchange of commodities. In olden times people often suffered a famine when, perhaps, there was an abundance of food a hundred or two miles away. Now people of every civilized land draw food supplies from almost every other civilized land. A few years ago the Englishman could not get a peach except by raising it under glass or having the trees trained upon the south side of a wall. Now fresh peaches, plucked ripe from the trees of California, are sold by the bushel in London at prices which place them within the reach of all. The refrigerators on the steamships and railroads have made it easy to transport the most perishable fruit to any distance. This has not only added to the enjoyment of people in everyland, but to the profits of the producers.

Hard on Science and Soldiers.

The latest information of the achievements of the scientists in concentrating the ordinary articles of food into the smallest limits comes from Chicago, where a Chemist has succeeded in making tablets the size of a pea, which, with the aid of hot water, will make a large bowl of soup. The chemist in question, however, is not satisfied, and sets his mark at the concentration of all the food elements of a 1,200 pound steer in the limits of a pill box.

This is scientific amibtion with a vengeance, but concurrently with its announcement comes a report that indicates that scientific compression is likely to go wrong. A company of troops was sent out on an experimental forced march in the foothills of the Rocky Mountains, provisioned only with the compressed soup and coffee tablets. At the end of the first day's march the medical officer in charge rode back for assistance, 36 out of the 50 men being taken down with griping pains from non-asimilation of the scientific ration. As army red tape aggravated the scientific fiasco by forcing the suffering men to keep up the march for the remaining two days one section of our skeletonized army is prepared to swear that it wishes no more tampering with the hard tack, coffee, bacon and beans of commerce and actual warfare. The result was hard on science, but much harder on the soldiers.

A large portion of the present generation, at least, will remain in the conviction that the food products of nature are good enough for them.

Held In High Esteem.

The colored citizens of this community have an able, scholarly and representative preacher in the person of Rev. H. A. Grant. His sermons, articles for the daily press and kindness to every one have wrought largely upon the morals and the advancement of the people in this community in many respects. Understanding that he goes to his annual conference sometime on or about the 9th of October next, the thought struck me, what course will his friends take to have him returned here again? Now, as an admirer of a preacher who preaches the solid gospel as against the sinfulness and "no harm pleasures" of this age, and who does so without fearing the result, I will give ten dollars on his salary if he comes back; and would willingly give one hundred, if I were able. I frankly confess that I used to have some strange notions and views about colored people, but Rev. H. A. Grant's ability as preacher and writer, have thoroughly converted me to see that there is no difference between and among people who are properly trained. Any community does well to keep such men as long as possible.

I am yours for the good of the community. A. H.

Anti-Toxine for Diphtheria.

Dr Frank Humphreys, of Grenshaw, recently became very ill with diphtheria. The Brockwayville Record says: That when the young man was stricken, his case assumed a malignant type from the start. Dr. Quinn telegraphed to Buffalo for some of the anti-toxine serum which has lately been discovered and advanced by the medical profession as almost a specific for diphtheria. When the medicine arrived a few days after, a maximum dose was injected hypodermically into the large muscles of the doctor's thigh. The next day he was very ill and it seemed as though his recovery was impossible, but later on the treatment seemed to take effect and the patient rallied for the better. He continued to improve and is now considered out of danger. Dr. Quinn believes but for the timely administering of the anti toxine all other treatment would have been unavailing and nothing else could have saved the patient's life.

A FRENCH scientist of note maintains that a large number of the nervous maladies from which girls suffer are to be attributed to playing the piano. He shows by statistics that of 1,000 girls who study this instrument before the age of 12 no less than 600 suffer from nervous disorders, while of those who do not begin till later there are only 200 per 1,000 among those who have never worked at it. The violin, he says, is equally injurious. As a remedy, he suggests that children should not be permitted to study either instrument before the age of 16 at least, and in the case of those possessing delicate constitutions not till a later age.

Little Change.

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 20.—There is but little change in the coke strike situation from that of yesterday. The cokers who struck yesterday are still out. Michael Metro, and John Frunchello, Italian leaders in the strike movement at Oliver's, have been placed in jail charged with leading the mob that made threats of violence to those who should return to work.

The strikers claim that the Brownfield works of the Frick company and the Stewart Iron company, as well as Trotter and Leisenring No. 1, are badly crippled on account of desertions. A delegate convention will be held to-morrow at Scottdale, when a great break is expected by the strike leaders.

For Senator Lemon's Seat.

Harrisburg, Sept. 18.—There is a probability that the sucessor to the late Senator Lemon, who will be chosen in November, may be Representative Stineman, of Cambria county. Stineman is a Republican.

CLEVELAND STARTS IT.

How the President Set the Atlanta Machinery in Motion.

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., Sept. 18.—The vast machinery of the Atlanta Exposition was successfully set in motion to-day from the president's summer home, Gray Gables.

Superintendent Viles, of the Boston office of the Western Union Telegraph company, was at his temporary desk at Gray Gables and made frequent tests to Atlanta to see that everything was in proper shape. Mr. Viles was in direct communication with Atlanta and received during the afternoon, several messages concerning the progress of the exercises there. At about 2 o'clock the chairman of the committee of arrangements telegraphed that the president would not be called upon to perform his part until 5 or 5.30 at the earliest. This caused some little disappointment, for it was understood, though not from official sources, that the button would be pressed on or about 2 o'clock. The room in which the ceremonies were performed is known as the president's gun room. On a little shelf close by the window is placed the annunciator. This is of black rubber, with a small solid gold band around the edge, with the following inscription engraved thereon: "Marion Cleveland, September 18, 1895."

The knob of the annunciator is white with an engraved masonic emblem—square and compass—in gold, an exceedingly pretty affair.

Private Secretary Thurber during all the preliminaries acted as master of ceremonies and as fast as the messages were received, took them to the president and frequently the president himself would ask how matters were proceeding. Ever since the project was first undertaken in this exposition, the president has taken the deepest interest, and he was anxious that the undertaking of opening the exposition at this end should be a success in every way.

The special wire was disconnected from the telegraph instruments and for one minute the wire was left open, and at the end of the next twenty seconds Mr. Cleveland pressed the button. This was 6.56. His thumb was on the annunciator hardly a second, and as soon as Operator Viles could connect the telegraph key word was received from Atlanta that the machinery started splendidly. In this respect it was a decided success. Those in the room at the house beside the president were Mrs. Cleveland, Mr. Thurber, and Misses Ruth and Esther Cleveland and nurse. Miss Ruth was especially interested in all that was going on and stood beside her father when the button was pressed, while Esther sat in her mother's lap. Mrs. Cleveland seemed to take very much interest in the affair and requested that she be called before the button was pressed.

A Frisky Maide

[illegible] reached this city there came with the show a girl named Annie Betz, of Homestead. Annie found a home with a Woodward township farmer, where she remained several weeks, when her father came for her and took her back to Homestead.

The Pittsburg Times says Annie's father James Betz, and Robert Finch, were at police headquarters yesterday seeking news of two runaway women, Mrs. Finch and Annie Betz. The former is about 25 years old and the latter about 17. They disappeared together Monday forenoon. Mrs. Finch took $200 of her husband's money and the Betz girl secured $75 of her father's savings. This is the third time Annie has cut loose from the parental roof.

Fish and Game Law Compiled.

The state department has compiled the amended fish and game laws of the state in accordance with a joint resolution adopted by the last legislature. The laws will be published in pamphlet form and will be ready for distribution within ten days. Six thousand copies are for the use of the senate, 3,000 for the house of representatives and 500 each for the secretary of the commonwealth and the fish commissioners.

Plant Nut Trees.

There is rough land on almost all our farms where it would pay better to plant nuts, both for the timber and for the nuts than anything else. A large farm with these trees set on the roadside, perhaps thirty feet from the centre of the road and twenty feet apart, would sell enough nuts annually to pay the tax and leave a surplus for each picker sufficient to pay for the picking.

Tamative is the point on the Madagascar coast from which a French expedition should have been started for Antananarivo instead of Majunga, at the northern end of the island. The distance is shorter, high ground is reached sooner and there is less fever. The Majunga expedition seems to be stalled, and if, as reported from Paris, a second expedition is to start from Tamatave, it will be a miserable confession of failure.

"I have a dear little babe, and am well. I thank Mrs. Pinkham for this, and so could other motherless women. I was a victim of Female troubles. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me."—MRS. GEO. C. KIRCHNER, 351 Snediker Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Quick Run on the Pennsy.

Philadelphia, September 18.—The Pennsylvania railroad to-day testing a new engine from the company's shops made a remarkably quick run between Jersey City and Philadelphia. The distance between the two cities is 89.76 miles and today's run was made in 99 minutes. Although this is exceedingly fast railroading it is still ten minutes behind the record made two years ago between Jersey City and Philadelphia. The run today was not intended as a try for a record, but was made to test one of thirteen new engines recently built by the company in its own shops and the result was gratifying. The train was made up of seven vestibule passenger cars and weighed 680,167 pounds. It was drawn by engine No. 1651 and left Jersey City at 1.15 p. m. The fastest speed was made between Princeton Junction and Trenton, when a mile was reeled off in fifty seconds. No stops were made on the run and the train arrived at 2 54, exactly ninety-nine minutes after leaving Jersey City. The average speed for the entire distance was at the rate of fifty-eight miles an hour. None of the highest officials of the road were aboard, but a number of the officers of the construction and motive power department made the trip.

Champion Potato Grower.

Henry Miltenberger, of Somerset county, thus far claims to be the champion potato grower of this State. Miltenberger says that he is willing to bet that he had the best crop of potatoes that has been raised in the State this year, considering the amount of seed planted and the size and number of potatoes yielded. Mr. Miltenberger had but three bushels of seed for planting, which he cut without paying any particular attention to the eyes. From three bushels he received 90 bushels in return or just 30 times the amount he sowed. The potatoes in question are not only wonderful on account of their numbers, but especially on account of their weight. Mr. Miltenberger claims that he has picked out 74 of them which weigh in all 63 pounds. He also has several that weigh two pounds and five ounces apiece. He defies any one in the State to equal him as a potato grower, and says that if any one does not believe that his assertions are true that they are welcome to come and examine the potatoes for themselves and be convinced.

Wheelmen Arrested.

Consternation was created among the Williamsport wheelmen last evening by a number of arrests owing to violation of the city ordinance. On April 25, 1895, an ordinance became a law requiring wheelmen, among others things, to have their bicycle properly equipped with lamps and bells, and also regulating their passage to and fro on the sidewalks. No attention was paid to the ordinance by the wheelmen, which led to a notice being given that on and after September 16, [illegible] ure would only be strictly enforced. [illegible] ing a number of wheelmen were on the street as usual without lights or bells, and the policemen arrested all who had failed to comply with the ordinance's provisions. Nineteen young men were taken before aldermen and were each made pay the fine of five dollars and costs, which in the aggregate amounted to $6.75. One wheelman says he will appeal.

Pennsylvania Crop Bulletin.

The weather crop bulletin for the past week, issued by the Pennsylvania weather bureau, gives the following report: Some late corn, buckwheat and tobacco were injured by frost on the 15th. High temperatures prevailed until the latter part of the week, when it became unseasonably cold. Much of the early ripened crops are already harvested. Fall seeding and plowing are well advanced, but the draught has caused delays in several localities. Pastures have improved where sufficient rain occurred. In some sections wells, springs and streams are low.

The market is full of cough mixtures but one trouble with most of them is that when they do a little good the patient has to take so much that he gets to loathe the taste. The Pineola Balsam is superior to other cough remedies because it is agreeable to the palate and its good effects are immediate. In a few days an ordinary cough is gone altogether. Bronchitis and asthma are more stubborn, but they too are cured by Ely's Pineola Balsam. A remedy worth trying. Twenty-five cents is all it costs.

Lime Business.

We are informed that Mr. A. G. Morris' lime operations, at this place, are crowded with orders. A new operation is being opened by this firm, on the Brockerhoff farm, up Buffalo Run valley, in order to be able to meet the demand. There is also a scarcity of workmen. At their operations near Altoona they need 100 men and can't get them. They have the same trouble at this place.

They Cure the Cause.

Most of the discomfort in life comes from the stomach. You'll admit that without argument The proof is in your own stomach.

A great many seemingly different diseases come from the common cause—a disordered stomach. Coming from one cause, it is natural that they should all be cured by one medicine. Ripans Tabules not only cure the disease—they cure the cause. They are good for dyspepsia, biliousness, headache constipation, dizziness and all troubles of the stomach, liver and bowels. Druggists sell them.

Hastingsto Go to Ohio.

Harrisburg, Sept. 18.—Gov. Hastings, who is in New York City, having received requests from Ohio to make speeches in that State for the Republican ticket, has decided to speak in the principal cities and will occupy about two weeks in a campain tour. He will be accompanied by Private Secretary Beitler. The Governor will return to Harrisburg by Saturday next,

Before leaving for Ohio he will make all the appointments necessary under the law creating the department of agriculture and also fill the vacancies in the factory inspection department. For deputy secretary of agriculture a dark horse will probably be selected, one thoroughly qualified by agricultural experiences to fill the place.

Miss Helen Hastings, the governor's eldest daughter, has recovered from a severe attack of bronchitis and started to-day with her mother for Bellefonte to spend a few days at their former home. Next Monday Miss Hastings will enter the Ogontz school. Mrs. Hastings will spend much time in Bellefonte while the executive mansion is being remodeled. It will take until Christmas to complete the work.

ipated. The battle of Antietam, near Sharpsburg, was fought and in this both 'Squires Hay and Woodring participated, the latter being in Mansfield's corps, and they at that time being unacquainted. The battle of Fredericksburg was fought but a few weeks later and Lincoln's emancipation proclamation was issued on the 23rd of September.

Right here is a good place to correct a popular delusion. By common consent Gettysburg is spoken of as the most sanguinary battle of the war. This is true when regarded as a three day's engagement, but the losses at Fredericksburg were greater on a single day, while those at Antietam were the heaviest for two days of any sustained by the Federal troops during the war.

Moved to Buffalo.

Bellefonters will remember Charlie Pierce, at one time a law student with Orvis, Bower & Orvis. In a recent issue of a western paper we find the following:

"Charles H. Pierce, who became well known over Southern Oregon, by reason of his extensive timber land dealings here the past few years and his marriage to a Jackson county young lady, has recently removed with his family from Seattle to Buffalo, N. Y., where he is senior member of the firm of Pierce & Dunning, general eastern managers for the Seattle Cedar Lumber Co, and the Grays Harbor Commercial Co., extensive western Washington lumbering companies. Mr. Pierce, in a recent letter to the Tidings, makes some interesting comments regarding Pacific coast lumber products in the extreme East, and we take the liberty of quoting from his letter. He says:"

Mr. Pierce's statement that "in a few years the Pacific coast will be the only large source of supply for all the East in high grade lumber" is one of significance to Oregon, as well as Washington, and foretells a prosperous time coming for the big forests of sugar and yellow pine timber in Southern Oregon.

In Feeble Condition.

The venerable Alexander Kerr, of Potter, who will be 91 years of age in October, is feeble both in body and mind. He is about the only one living of Potter township's old land marks. His life was one of entire usefulness; his citizenship faultless, and for honesty and integrity not a blemish marks his brow. What a satisfaction to have lived so noble a life. With what pride can the children of such a father keep his memory green.

Its Own Land.

There is a tree at Athens, Georgia, which is a property holder. In the early part of the century the land on which it stands belonged to Colonel Jackson, who took great delight in watching its growth and enjoying its shade. In his old age the tree had reached magnificent proportions, and the thought of its being destroyed by those who would come after him was so repugnant that he recorded a deed conveying to it all land within a radius of eight feet of it.

Death of Rev. Wakefield.

Rev. Dr. Samuel Wakefield, the veteran Methodist minister, who departed this life Sept. 12, 1895, at the residence of J. C. Brown, West Newton, Pa., was 96 years, 6 months and 8 days old. Dr. Wakefield was said to be the oldest mason and oldest preacher of the Methodist Episcopal church and possibly the oldest of any denomination in the world. Dr. Wakefield's Theology, is now a standard elementary study in the Methodist Episcopal Seminaries, it having been adopted by the brain of the church. He more recently completed the compilation of a volume of his own sermons. His latest work is entitled "Gospel Tidings." Dr. Wakefield was a ripe scholar, great and good man. He stands in the front ranks with the standard authors of this country. The late Dr. Hodge of the Presbyterian church (of whom it may truthfully be said as an author of "Systematic Theology" has not as yet been equalled in this country) whose instructions I had at the Western Theological Seminary, Allegheny City, Pa., said of Dr. Wakefield to our class in the course of his lecture on the different authors of Theology, that Dr. Wakefield "stoodiside by side with them all." We pay this tribute of respect to the memory of Dr. Wakefield because we found him to be not only a leading scholar but a christain gentleman of the highest type both at his home and in church work. When we were doing Evangelistic work in that part of the country Dr. Wakefield would often come to hear us "expound God's work," as well as fill any appointment we asked him to accept whenever he was able to do so Doubtless, apart from his own denomination the whole American church would have rejoiced had he lived to reach the hundreth mile stone. The Afro-American is ever ready to pay honor to such men. "Ministerial reciprocity" with him was genuine.—H. A. Grant pastor of A. M. E church, Bellefonte Pa.

Castoria is truly a marvelous thing for children. Doctors prescribe it, medical journals recommend it and more than a million mothers are using it in place o Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, so-called soothing syrups and other narcotic and stupefying remedies. Castoria is the quickest thing to regulate the stomach and bowels and give healthy sleep the world has ever seen. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, quiets pain, cures diarrhoea and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, soothes the child and gives it refreshing and natural sleep, Castoria is the children's panacea—the mother's friend.

Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose." See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 12, 1891.

GENTLEMEN:—I must say Castoria is really a "great" thing. We commenced giving our boy (Sanford) Castoria when two weeks old; he is now eleven months, weighs 26 lbs., walked to-day alone, has no trouble teething, never had the colic. He is the picture of health itself, all owing to Castoria. Respectfully,

MRS. S. ALFRED, 1703 West 14th St.

Captured a Bear Alive.

Williamsport Sun yesterday: Early this morning W. L. Sellinger and brother, of Salladasburg, captured a black bear weighing 100 pounds, three miles from their home. In anticipation of a visit from his bearship, the hunters had built a pen, into which he walked. In order to get bruin home alive they tied a rope around his neck and the brothers walked on either side, being very careful to keep the rope taut, preventing the animal from turning to the right or left. The Sellingers also captured a 200 pounder last week, but it was necessary to shoot him to get him home.

New York Board of Health on Wine

Dr. Janes, of the New York Board of Health, says:

"I take great pleasure in testifying to the superior qualities of the Port Wine produced by Alfred Speer, of New Jersey. After a prolonged trial I reccommend it as a superior wine for the sick and debilitated."

It is kept in casks to a great age before bottling, and though higher in price is far superior and more reliable than other wines.

Children Should Not Have Them.

The practice of children placing buttonhooks in their mouths should be prohibited, to prevent the possibility of injuries. The Patton Courier relates that Oscar, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Hartzog, was running back and forth through the house playing with his brothers and holding in his mouth a long button hook. Suddenly he came in contact with one of the children and the hook was pushed back into his throat, penetrating his tonsils, which caused much agony. After unsuccessful efforts by his parents to release their son by pulling it out, he was taken to a physician who, after considerable difficulty, succeeded in removing it. The boy now nurses a very sore throat as the result of his playfulness.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

The further opening up of the South Central group of gold mines, and the erection of a Stamp Mill to reduce the company's ore to bullion, is a square, legitimate use of capital.

1. Mr. Barry, formerly of Cripple Creek, the Bonanza gold camp of Colorado, sold his interests there, and bought the Morning Star gold mine, a producer in the vicinity of the South Central group.

2. Captain Plummer, formerly of the Granite Mountain mine, is now working the Delamar Mine, a large producer in the vicinity of the South Central group.

As the Granite Mountain (Gold and Silver Mining Co.) stock rose from about twelve cents a share to over $50 a share, and paid from 25 cents to 50 cents per share per month in dividends, under the superintendency of Captain Plummer, we consider him a pretty safe guide to follow in mining, and we invite you to participate in the nvestment.

NEW DISCOVERY.

Among the many discoveries of the present age, none rank higher than the new metal silvereen, which owing to its great durability and cheapness is bound to take the place of silver in the manufacture of fine tableware.

Silvereen is a beautiful white metal, will not tarnish or rust, and all goods made from it are warranted.

We want every one to have a chance to compare silvereen with silver, so for the next sixty days we are going to give away one half dozen Crown Silver Tea Spoons Free, to every person who will send for one of our Terry's Silvereen sets, containing six Tea Spoons, one Sugar Shell, one Butter Knife. If at any time the Silvereen goods do not prove satisfactory, return them and your money will be refunded. Remember we give you the Silver Spoons.

Price of Silvereen set, $2.00. f7-2y.

TOLEDO SILVER CO. TOLEDO, O.

RECENTLY the assistant treasurer of the United States at New York city has turned into the post office department fund the sum of one million three hundred thousand dollars, which has been accumulating in the sub-treasury during the last thirty years from the funds paid to the money-order post offices for remittances which have never been claimed. Old money orders are presented at the post office department almost every day, but the amount of the unpaid money-order fund increases constantly, and there is no likelihood that any part of the one million three hundred thousand dollars will be claimed by its owners. In fact, every year from fifty to one hundred thousand dollars is added to the fund, which represents carelessness or neglect.

THE report of the Pennsylvania Commissioner of Fisheries contains this clause: "The obstruction of the Susquehanna by dams and the destruction of the young shad in fish baskets in its course through Maryland, and frequently in Pennsylvania, has practically ruined the once valuable fisheries of that river. Until these fish weirs are entirely abolished and the dams removed or the river above them is made accessible to shad by fishways the Susquehanna will never reach its former high standard." This should be an inducement to the people to continue the agitation in favor of an opening of the river to the fish. The useless dams between this city and Harrisburg should be taken out immediately. The canal has been abandoned and the dams are a nuisance.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

From our Regular Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21, 1895.

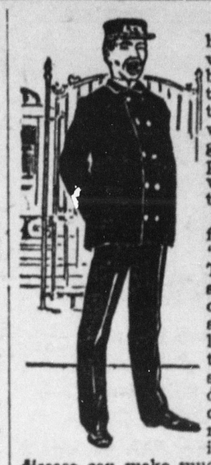
The investment and speculative interests have been held in suspense by the gold exports and the uncertainty as to what may be done to maintain the Treasury gold reserve. It has been somewhat of a shock that the "free gold" in the Treasury has fallen materailly below the official minimum and without compensation from the Syndicate. There have been several contributions of gold from various points to the interior, which have had an assuring effect so far as they show the disposition of financial institutions outside of New York to help the Treasury according to their ablity; and this assurance is worth the more because the amount of gold scattered among banks and trust companies at interior points is unprecedentedly large; and could the gold which has been thus diverted from its former usual resting place in the metropolitan banks and the Sub-Treasury be systematically gathered together, so as to afford a mass of 30 or 40 millions, to aid the banks and the Treasury in resuming gold payments with each other as formerly, then this scattered treasure might most materially help towards a permanent remedy of the Treasury's difficulties. But these casual and partial contributions from the sources alluded to are quickly lost to sight in the export malestrom and their benefit is only a small moral gain.

The really disconcerting fact is that there is still an absence of any sort of intimation as to what steps are likely to be taken for staying the new current shipments of specie and to provide for the out flow that usually sets in early in the New Year. Under such circumstances, opinion has inclined to the conclusion that the Government is likely to issue, sooner or later, a new loan, and the more so because the President is known to be resolved to take that course should the reserve fall to seventy-five millions. Such a course no matter how necessary, would be regarded as a serious misfortune and could not fail to have a chilling effect in every department of business. This possibility has already had its effect; and yet discouragement is tempered with the hope that, at the eleventh hour, some means may be found for applying a real and permanent remedy.

This week, the syndicate and their friends are understood to have co-operated for keeping down the gold shipments as low as possible and no doubt have done their best in that direction. In the meantime, there is little export of cotton; and wheat, though advancing in price, is for that reason the less likely to be shipped. Chicago, however, is notably increasing its supply of grain export bills, and rates of exchange are easier in consequence. There is substantial reason for expecting that the export of specie may soon be checked, if not stopped, through the course of the money market. The shipments of gold and the forwarding of large amounts o currency to the West and South are together reducing the reserves of the city banks to an extent that may early put up the rate for call loans to 4@5 per cent. This, with gold flowing freely into the Bank of England and 2 per cent. discount at Bank and ½ per cent on call loans, will quickly dispose London bankers to allow funds to accumulate here instead of continuing to accept our gold in settlements. Upon the whole, therefore, the indications of the movement suggest a strong probability of an early abatement of the exports of gold; and this produced a marked improvement of stock towards the end o the week. Of the intentions of the Syndicate little is known. They recently openly announced that they considered their engagements with the Treasury fully completed, but intimated that it is their purpose to voluntarily contribute gold for an indefinite future period. Some further help from that source may therefore be anticipated, if needed.

The recent heavy break in stocks ha proven to be a good thing for the market as it forced stocks from feeble hands into stronger ones, and such as are capable of not only sustaining but advancing prices, besides imparting more activity. The St. Paul statement of earnings, showing an increase of $86,000 over the corresponding date last year, was really the turning point in Monday's deluge, as the Grangers were the most vulnerable part of the market, and yielded readily to the attacks, which were very savage. There is a good deal that indicates the possibility of another bond issue. Such a negotiation is not yet positive, although quite likely before Congress convenes. The advance of 3c in wheat from the lowest prices is a favorable feature in the situation, especially for the St. Paul Road, which has most to do with the spring wheat crop. The attitude of London towards International American stocks has been disappointing. It is easily accounted for, however, by the craze attending the Kaffir diamond and gold stocks. Such a wild frenzy of speculation in doubtful properties has not been witnessed in Europe since the Panama ditch speculation in France. It is not feared that the collapse in the Kaffirs may not unlikely turn out to be as disastrous to the holders who overstay their market as in the case of the Panama Canal deal; and when that time comes American securities will doubtless again take their position in the London market as favorites. The difficulty at the present time is that the ups and downs of American securities range within only a few points from week to week, which make them comparatively tame to deal in as compared to the inducements for operating in the Kaffirs which frequently provide for a profit of several hundred per cent within a few days.

HENRY CLEWS.



You've seen and heard the loud voiced man at the big railway stations, calling the trains. He tells where each one is going and keeps people from taking wrong trains—if they pay attention.

One's physical feelings are bodily "train callers." They announce the starting of all trains of disease. Most all trains of disease lead to consumption, because consumption is a blood disorder and because the blood must be poor or impure before any disease can make much headway.

The secret of health is to keep the blood pure and full of strength. When a man or woman loses flesh and vitality, there is something wrong in the blood. The start of it is likely to be in the stomach or bowels, and if they are put in order the trouble gradually stops. Consumption is a germ disease, but if the blood is good, and keeps the lungs strong and healthy, the germs cannot find a place to lodge and are cast off. If there's a weak spot, the germ will find it. Even after that, strong and pure blood will strengthen the lungs so that they can gradually rid themselves of the germs. It is by creating strength and purity that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures consumption and other diseases. It makes one gain flesh—not flabby, oily fat, but sound, firm, useful, healthy flesh. Hundreds of patients have testified to its wonderfully beneficial effects in many diseases and especially, in incipient consumption.

A large book of 160 pages, full of these testimonials with portraits and autographs of the writers, can be had by sending 6 cents to cover postage to WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Electricity as a Beautifier.

A recent writer declares that while electricity is known to be a cure for many o the troubles that flesh is heir to, an unexpected use has been found for it, and that a slight faradic current applied morning and evening to the face, neck and shoulders will increase the flesh and greatly improve the complexion. The electric carrent is too often prostituted to quackery, but in this instance its application seems to be perfectly natural and based on the simplest law of electrical and physiological effects. The treatment is far more sensible and effective than cosmetics and washes, and a small pocket battery will meet all its requirements. Much in beauty is due to the anatomical substratum of the skin, attractiveness depending largely upon contour, and anything that tones up the facial muscles tends to restore and accentuate their outlines. This modification [illegible] sult of the influence of the current upon the nerves, both in their movement and in their nourishment. The effect upon the healthiness and beauty of the skin follows upon the improved circulation of the blood in the skin. Increased flow of blood means increased nourishment, capacity to eliminate deleterious material, and firmness vigor of the skin, so there is little doubt that the judicious application of a mild faradie current to the face, neck and shoulders of those who wish to improve their personal appearance can in no way do any harm, and if patiently persevered in, is most likely to aid them in their purpose.

IT is a significant sign of the times that the public road question has gone into politics after a fashion. As has been shown time and again, says the Baltimore Sun good roads add more to the prosperity and well being of a community than almost any other public improvement. The roads to a certain degree mark the civilization of the people. As people become more intelligent and public spirited they understand better the advantage of good roads and the blighting effect of bad roads and they are not content with bad roads. For many years the building of railroads, many of them not needed, has monopolized the capital and the enterprise of the people of the United States to the exclusion of other and even more important improvements. Every part in the Union now has its railroads, but the people need good roads over which to haul their products to the stations. Heretofore the roads have been used as adjuncts to machine politics. The money appropriated for roads has been more intended for the benefit of small politicians than it has to make better roads.

Another Commission Appointed.

London, Sept. 24.—The Morning Post to-morrow will print a dispatch to a news agency from Shanghai, saying it was reported that China has refused to grant the demand of Great Britain for the banishment of the late viceroy of the province Szechuen, who is accused of having instigated the outrages on the missionaries.

The dispatch also says that an imperial decree has been issued appointing Li Hung Chang and all the members of the Tsung Li Yamen a commission to formulate an additional treaty between China and Japan.

—The poultry and egg crop of the United States is estimated to be worth $250,000,000 annually. Startling as these figures may appear, it seems still more remarkable that besides the above, we import 60,000,000 and 100,000,000 dozen eggs each year.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, Sept. 23, 1895.

From our Regular Correspondent.)

Secretary Carlisle now knows what decision Mr. Cleveland and his Wall street advisers have arrived at concerning government finances and another issue of bonds. On Saturday he was telegraphed fot by Mr. Cleveland, and, although he had to break several important engagements to do so, he caught the first train from Washington. Some people might not consider it proper or dignified for the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States to be hurriedly called upon to travel several hundred miles in order to ascertain what the Treasury Department was going to do, but Mr. Carlisle, if he hasn't become used to that sort of treatment, has at least to grin and bear it, as it is about the only kind he gets from Mr. Cleveland. When the last bond issue was determined upon Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Carlisle were both in Washington, but Mr. Carlisle didn't know anything about it until after a member of the syndicate which negotiated the deal with Mr. Cleveland got back to New York and was interviewed for a newspaper. So it is not probable that he was surprised to be summoned to Buzzard's Bay to learn what he must do.

Treasury officials have been a little easier in mind during the last few days, as there has been less demand for gold for export, but they know that more money must be had from somewhere sooner of later, even if not another dollar in gold is sent to Europe for a year. The receipts of the government are a way below its expenditures and it is only a question of time when the gold reserve will have to be encroached upon to meet the government's current expenses, as this administration has already had to do, unless Congress comes to the rescue by providing for more revenue. This the Republican Congress will be glad to do, but it is not so certain that its method of doing it will be acceptable to Mr. Cleveland, as the revenue will be provided for by tariff revision along the lines of republican protection for American industries.

Mr. Curtis is one of the assistant secretaries of the Treasury. He is also one of the maddest men in Washington, but he isn't mad enough to resign—there is a very comfortable salary attached to his office, and barring accidents he expects to continue drawing it until March 4th, 1897. Mr. Curtis' pet halucination, which, by the way, isn't shared by anyone else, is that he is a great financier. During last week Mr. Curtis was in New York flitting about among the members of the bond syndicate and other big bankers, and having his daily movements chronicled in the newspapers in connection with speculations as to why he was there and what sort of a financial deal he was making. He was in his glory, but it was short lived. The Treasury Department gave to the press a statement saying that Mr. Curtis was on his vacation and that if he spent a good portion of his time in Wall street it was for his own pleasure or business and has no connection whatever with the government's finances. That took all the wind out of his sails, and he came back to Washington mad all over. He can't say anything to his superior for fear that he may be called upon to resign that comfortable salary, but he is taking it out on the poor devils who are unfortunate enough to be his subordinates.

Where was Dan Lamont last week? He wasn't in Washington, and nobody seemed to know where he was. As Secretary of War Dan was on the programme for a speech at the Chickamaugua battlefield exercises. But he didn't make that speech. Didn't even attend the dedication ceremonies. He never made a speech in his life, although he is credited with having written some that made a stir, and some say that Dan ran off and hid himself somewhere just to keep from making that speech. Others say tha the was somewhere in New York, under secret orders from Cleveland, working in connection with the New York democratic convention which is to meet this week, and which promises to be entirely too Hilly for the pleasure of either of Dan's special friends—Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Whitney. Dan was at his desk to-day; he says he went to Maine to to bring his family to Washington.

Indications of Autumn.

Autumn tinted leaves are appearing in the woods and weather beaten faces are numerous on the streets. All signs point to an early fall; even the cool waves are growing chilly, the hills are slightly frost bitten, and the summer girls and boys cannot stand it any longer, and are returning in noticeable bunches. Every hour adds new life to the sidewalks, and it really looks as if the summer was over and the year had gotten a good start towards the finish.

HASTINGS AS LEADER.

A Plan to Send Him to the National Convention.

Harrisburg, Sept. 24.—C. L. Magee and David Martin are in conference with Gov. Hastings at the executive mansion to-night They say there is no political significance in their visit.

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—A special to the Record from Harrisburg states that a significant meeting of the leading members of the anti-Quay republican forces was held there this afternoon, which is believed to mean that the lines are to be shaped for a fight against Senator Quay for the control of the state delegation to the republican national convention.

David Martin and C. L. Magee, arrived together this afternoon from Philadelphia and went to the executive department where they were closeted with the governor until after 6 o'clock this evening. It is asserted that a plan was agreed upon regarding the distribution of offices that will best aid in the securing of delegates to the national convention. The same authority has it that the prospects of success in securing a majority of the national delegates was thoroughly discussed, and that the members of the conference feel satisfied they can capture enough to win.

Those who profess to know say that one of the first movements in the direction of carrying out the proposed plan will be announcement of Governor Hastings as a candidate for national delegate from the Twenty-eighth congressional district, composed of Clearfield, Centre, Elk, Forest and Clarion counties.

The object, so it is said, is to have Gov. Hastings a delegate to the convention from Pennsylvania with a view to making him chairman of the delegation and placing him so completely before the national organization that his chances for the presidential nomination will be materially strengthened.

Not a Good Year for Honey Makers.

Robert Simcox the famous Queen's Run bee keeper says this has been a poor year for bees to make honey. He thinks it is on account of the weather having been too dry. Fifty-five "skeps" of bees produced for him this year not over 500 pounds and the same number last year produced about 3,000 pounds, which is quite a falling off.

REMAINS A MYSTERY.

The Death of Allen H. Dale, the Civil Engineer.

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 24.—The inquest on the death of Allen H. Dale, the civil engineer connected with the Schuylkill Valley railroad, whose body was found in the canal here one week ago, was held this afternoon. Dr. Cantwell, the county physician who made the post mortem examination, testified that no water was found in the lungs, as would have been the case had Mr. Dale been drowned. He stated that the main artery had burst within several inches of the heart. The witness was not prepared to say that the bursting of the blood vessel caused death, but it was probably coincident within his death from whatever cause death may have occurred.

It is probable that Mr. Dale's pockets were rifled after he was dead and that his body was then thrown into the water. A gold watch and chain, a number of papers, and whatever money he may have had were all missing when the body was found. The jury rendered a verdict that the deceased had met his death on Monday, September 16, in some manner unknown to them.

Future Road Developments.

Two recent reports combine to impress upon the American people the necessity of mending their ways; i. e., their country highways. An officer of the United States Army recently took a bicycle run through the Eastern States from New York to Virginia for the purpose of reporting on the bicycle as a means of moving troops. He reports that, while there is a difference in the character of the roads, the general average would make bicycle useless for military purposes. At the same time the United States Consul at Havre reports with regard to the French Horseless carriages and wagons that solid and smooth roads are necessary for their successful use, and that before this country can utilize them it must improve its roads to the ideal condition attained in France.

The latter conclusion is more important han the first, because the inference that with good roads the bicycle could be used for military movements subject to severe limitations. It could be used that way as long as there was no necessity for troops to leave the exact line of the smooth highways. But as, in nine cases out of ten, troops must do that very thing, the bicycle would be of value only in exceptional cases. The nature of war calls upon cavalry, artillery and infantry to be ready to pass over plowed fields, to surmount rocky hills, to rush through forests and to climb over abattis and rifle pits. At the very beginning of any of these movements the bicycle would be hors du combat. It might seem that the bicycle could be used in moving troops rapidly from one point to another along the highways.

The Earth's Rotation.

The next time you have boiled eggs for breakfast make this experiment and see how very easy a thing it is to show the earth's double motion, its rotation on its own axis and its revolution around the sun at the same time. In the centre of a plate draw, if you choose, a big blazing sun with the yoke of an egg, provided it be hard, and then moisten on the edge or flange of the plate with water. Place a segment of the egg shell on the plate, and with a gentle movement of the hand you may make it not only revolve around the track you have moistened, but also spin on its axis as it goes.

Unionville Items.

Our town has had its share of Dog shows, and Gipsy caravans the past summer, and now that the schools have opened and the children gathered from the streets, the place seems to have settled down to quiet every day life.

The heavy showers of last week enabled Cook & Griest to run their grist mill a few days. But on Monday they had to resort to steam power again.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays William P. Fisher will run his new cider mill to grind his own fruit, and that of any other parties who come. He has a large crop of apples but owing to the dry weather they have prematured and are decaying, causing much loss.

T. E. Griest took his daughter May, last week to the George school, a "Friends" institution near Philadelphia, and after spending a few days there, he returned home on Monday. Dr. Brussells son Edward, who is a pupil in the same institution, returned to his school duties on the same day.

Miss Myra Underwood has gone to the upper grade school at Tyrone, Pa.

Mrs. Martha Pyle, of Maryland, and Miss Eliza Griest, of Adams, county, Pa., are visiting friends in town.

Our undertaker, S. Confer, is said to be quite ill with typhoid pneumonia.

The buckwheat crop is being gathered from the neighboring hills, and will prove a good crop though short in the straw.

An Eloquent Tribute.

30,000 people attended the dedication of the National park at Chickamauga on Thursday. Addresses were made by John M. Palmer, John B. Gordon, Gens. James Longstreet, O. O. Howard, Joseph Wheeler, and others. Gen. Gordon closed his address with the following eloquent peroration:

"Every uniform worn by the brave, whether its color was blue or gray, every sheet of flame from the ranks and rifles of both; every cannon that shook Chickamauga's hills or thundered around the heights of Gettysburg; every whizzing shell that tore through the wilderness at Chancellorsville or Shiloh; every bullet-rent flag that floated in victory or went down in defeat on any field; every patriotic song or prayer wafted heavenward from the North or the South; every loving and tender ministration at the dying soldier's side, every agonizing throb in woman's heart or burning tear on devoted woman's cheek—all were contributions to the upbuilding of a loftier American manhood for the future defense of American freedom.

"And now in the presence of these witnesses and in the name of this great republic and its people, we set apart [illegible] American Mecca, and consecrate for all time, this immortal battleground made forever glorious by American valor."

Japan as a Manufacturing Country.

Consul Troup of Yokohama sends to the Foreign Office an interesting report on Japanese trade during the past year. The significant feature of his statistics and observations is the growth of the imports of raw materials, showing that Japan is becoming more and more a manufacturing, and consequently an exporting country. She is, nevertheless, a good customer of ours, her business with Great Britain and its dependencies amounting to nearly five millions and evincing a tendency to increase. In addition to the numerous articles Japan makes for herself and others, she has recently taken to manufacture iron pipes and electrical appliances. It is thought she will be able to turn out the whole of the 60,000 tons of piping required for the completion of the Tokio waterworks; she manufactures her own dynamos and the telephones used are all of native fabrication.—Ryland's Iron Trade Circular, August 10, 1895.

A Hint to Bicyclists.

An exchange gives the following bit of advice to the bicycle riders and if heeded would save trouble. The article says: A bad habit that prevails among bicyclers is that of coming up behind rigs on the road dashing by like a flash and shooting in ahead of the horse without announcing their coming. There is a general complaint against this practice and the reputation of the delightful outdoor exercises will suffer greatly if the habit continues longer. A number of accidents have been narrowly averted during the past month as a result of the carelessness. When approaching a rig from the rear, bicyclers should invariably announce their presence by means of a bell or whistle. This will greatly lessen the chances of an accident.

Death of a Large Man.

Reuben Miller, of Banks twp., Indiana county, died last week of heart trouble, aged 50 years. The deceased was remarkable for his immense avoirdupois, being probably the heaviest man in the state, his weight being 350 pounds. The undertakers secured the very largest casket manufactured and it was with considerable difficulty that the body was gotten into it.

Weather Extremities.

It is a just cause of complaint against our weather that there is altogether too much of it. There have been numerous illustrations of that weakness heretofore, but, if all that is promised to us for to-day is true, the complaint will be renewed with more than usual force.

To suffer ninety-degree weather during the third week in September might surely be considered enough in the line of unique weather; but to leap in a single day to the other extreme, frost and snow, as has been done out West and as is threatened here today, will be extraordinary illustrations of the meteorological vice of going to extremes. It may be truly averred that it will be going to extreme and sudden changes which is a double aggravation of the evil. To the encumbered by Sidney Smith's desire that we might take off our flesh and sit in our bones, at the same time that we are warned to get the furnace ready for next day's frosts, is calculated to make the average man weary. Milton, it is to be remembered, pictures the place of eternal punishment as one in which the condemned spirit is suddenly changed from torrid heats to arctic cold, and vice versa. Perhaps the weather predicted for to-day is intended to convince a skeptical generation that such a punishment is possible even in this world.

However, forwarned is to a certain degree forearmed. We have had notice enough of the coming change to have warmer clothing and the furnace fires in readiness for the change. The crops are nearly, if not altogether, out of danger from frosts and we can face the possibilities of the next twenty-four hours with the philosophical hope that sooner or later the dispensations of nature will vouchsafe us a season of the moderate and element spring and fall weather which, so far this year has only come in the midsummer months.

A New Kind of Wall Plaster.

The Mill Hall Lime company are now introducing the Crown wall plaster, which is claimed to be superior to all other wall plaster made. It is manufactured of lime and sand and can be placed in sacks and then carried into the room and mixed, and then placed on the walls and ceilings. As soon as the first coat is completed the plasters can begin with the second coat, and so on until the room is finished. The advantages of using this plaster is, that it dispenses with the mixing of plaster outside the house; it can be put on the walls regardless of the condition of the weather; no more than the quantity desired need be paid for; on account of its setting and drying qualities a house can be finished in one-fourth the time than where the old lime mortar is used; it is not easily knocked off, and when a nail is driven into it it will not run. Its finish is smooth and its clinch is strong. All things considered, it is as cheap as that made in the old fashioned way. As the product of a home industry it should be regarded with general favor.

Mr. O'Leary, of Buffalo, N. Y., has taken charge of the manufacture of the plaster, and is turning out a superior article. Wherever it has been tried it has given satisfaction.

Where Girls Are Desperate.

The Bradford girls have tired of waiting for proposals for marriage and have hit upon a scheme to force an expression of sentiment on the subject of matrimony from the derelict young men. It looks very innocent on the surface, but doubtless each of the dear girls treasured a hope that the proposal she received might eventuate in more than a joke. This is how it was done: About a dozen hammocks were hung up in the yard, and in each hammock a lady was seated. The gentlemen were given tickets which designated the hammock they were to occupy, and each young man was to make a proposal of marriage to the girl in that hammock. After that they were changed to all the other hammocks in turn until each youth had proposed to every girl. The gentleman who made the most lover-like proposal, in the estimation of the girls, was then voted upon.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

The current issue has editorials treating at length free libraries and summer schools Professor John M. Macfarlane, of the University of Pennsylvania, contributes a timely article showing the influence of T. H. Huxley in the movement of the present century which has led to the popularization of Natural Science. Dr. E. J. James writes on "Some Considerations on Our System of Education" and shows that our edcutation development is keeping pace with our industrial and commercial development, and that, since the problems of education are never-ending, the means of education must be ever-expanding. Dr. A. A. Bird concludes his studies of Pennsylvania Election Laws with a general article showing, much to Pennsylvania's discredit, the comparison between her election machinery and that of cities in New York State and other large cities of the country. There are notes on "Current Educational Movements in Great Britain,' reviews of Leslie Stephen's Life of Sir James Fitzjames Stephen, and W. R. W. Stephens' Life and Letters of Edward A. The State Crops.

The Philadelphia Press printed Tuesday several columns from its correspondents of the condition of the crops in the big eastern counties of the state. The drought and the heat have had severer effects in some regions than in others, but there are few of the sections that escaped with good yield of all staples. In Berks the pasturage has become so parched that the farmers are in some places feeding their stock on fodder housed away for winter use. All through Chester county the damage will be felt, amounting in the aggregate to many thousand dollars. In Lackawana the cows are feeding on ground so parched that a scarcity in the milk supply is already causing inconvenience in Scranton, and in Northampton, Bucks, Lehigh, Cumberland, and Lycoming the damage will be severely felt. Corn has suffered principally in all of these counties, but in many instances fall ploughing has been retarded by the hardness of the ground, and where wheat and rye seed has been planted it is so near the surface that it will have to be resown in many cases. In Adams and Dauphin corn only has been effected by the dry weather. Bedford and Montgomery farmers are feeling the need of rain. In Luzerne and Franklin the crops have survived the dry season and have all been harvested in excellent condition.

Warning to Hunters.

The young hunters, who have been shooting pheasants, rabbits and insectivorous birds since the season for squirrel shooting began, should take notice that they are liable to be heavily fined for their actions. The law excuses no one, and the fine is from $5 to $10 for every bird or animal shot out of season. Pheasant shooting legally begins October 1; rabbits and quail, November 1. It is unlawful to shoot meadow larks, robins, woodpeckers, catbirds, bluebird, flickers or yellow hammers, kill deer or night hawks, under a penalty of not less than $10, nor more than $50.

Wanamaker on Advertising.

"I do the heaviest advertising in dull times," says John Wanamaker. "Then it is when people look most keenly for bargains, and are anxious to know how much things cost, and where they can save money. I advertise particular things, give prices and take as much pains with my announcement as I do with my stock. One big dinner won't keep up the reputation of the house—but steady, good cooking does it. I never permit interest in my announcement to lag, and never miss an issue in my publications. Advertising has made my store one of the largest in the country.

A Good Feature.

One feature of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association Convention to be held at Williamsport, October 8, 9 and 10, is Bible readings by the Rev. L. W. Munhall, D. D., of Philadelphia, the noted evangelist. In addition to these Bible readings he is to make an address on "The Inspiration of the Bible." Every Sunday School worker in the State should be interested in this convention and ought to make the best possible effort to be present. Write to Mr. T. M. B. Hicks, Chairman General Committee, Williamsport, for further information and copy of the souvenir program.

THE JUNIOR MECHANICS.

The State Council Continues Its Sessions. The Day's Proceedings.

Pittsburg, Sept. 19.—The Junior Order United American Mechanics state council resumed its sessions to-day. The proposition that the council pay the mileage of the state representatives was indefinitely postponed. Each subordinate council will pay the expenses of its own delegates, as formerely The majority report, per diem and mileage committee, which was based on a mileage of three cents and a per diem of $2.50, stated that the total cost to e state council would be $20,000 per year, and would necessitate the laying of an extra per capita of twenty-eight cents. Mr. O. P. Cochran made an address pledging the support of the Lang adherents to the incoming administration, and urging harmony of the opposing factions in the interest of the welfare of the order.

The report of the state council secretary was unanimously adopted. It showed a membership in the state of 82,832. There are 833 councils. The mileage of the national representative was fixed at two and one-half cents and his per diem at $5 The national representative was instructed to vote for some city east of Pittsburg as an economical move for the next meeting place of the national convention. The proposition to have the national represeatative have a voice on the floor of the state council was voted down. C. H. Rambo, of council No. 83, of Philadelphia, is out announcing his candidacy for the office of state vice councillor next year.

One Valuable Exhibit.

By the use of an electric button at Buzzard's Bay Wednesday President Cleveland set the wheels of the Cotton States Exposition at Atlanta in operation. The more detailed ceremonies of the inauguration of the Southern exhibition conducted on the spot give the public a very favorable estimate of the enterprise.

One of the most encouraging features of the opening was the proof contained in the speeches of the good relation existing between the white people, who are conducting the exposition, and the colored race. The News has always maintained the hope that progress in the South would prove to the whites the necessity of recognizing the rights of the colored people to citizenship, and to the colored the need of making themselves worthy and industrious citizens. The Exposition, being especially representative of the New South, it is gratifying to find it furnishing evidence of the realization.

There may be Southern whites who still cherish the old belief in the unfitness of the blacks for anything but subordination, and there are undoubtedly blacks who still possess the weaknesses and vices engendered of slavery. But that progress has had its effect is shown in the speeches of the inauguration as to the relation of the two races, and the declaration of that philanthropic colored man, Booker T. Washington, that nothing in 30 years has done as much to draw the two races into good relations as the Exposition.

The Exposition will contain a great store of industrial and artistic interest for all visitors. But if it had no other feature than an evidence of just and peaceable relations of the two races in the South, and their union efforts for progress, it would be a grand success.

No Special Election.

Philadelphia, Sept. 19.—A special to the Telegraph from Harrisburg says: "It is understood that President Pro Tem McCarroll, of the Senate, will not issue his writ for a special election to fill the vacancy in the senate, caused by the death of Senator Lemon. The people of the district, it is said, do not want to elect a senator this year, and would rather that it be deferred until next year. There is bound to be some friction between Blair and Cambria counties over the selection of a candidate, as both counties will have aspirants."

Fertilizers Sold in this State.

The department of agriculture has issued 32,000 copies of a bulletin containing tabulated analysis of every brand of commercial fertilizers sold in Pennsylvania. The samples were collected by special agents of the department and turned over to Dr. W. Frear, of the State college, by whom the analyses were made. The returns of the department from fertilizers licenses and fees for the present year are largely in excess of those of any previous year and indicates a steady and permanent growth in the manufacture and sale of commercial fertilizers in the state.

Remarkable Family.

There are living seventeen children of this interesting family, all of whom were present, the oldest is seventy-eight and the youngest fifty-one years There were also present all the grand-children and great-grand-children. The whole number of the descendants of this remarkable family is 295.

Grape and Bark Bitters for Malaria

Every one knows the value of the grape, as a lucious and healthy fruit. Aunt Rachael's Malarial Bitters is the ultimate of the Grape Juice: in its properties, mildly diuretic, sudorific and tonic. More than seven-eighths is the pure juice of the grape, simply made bitter by Peruvian Bark, Chamomile Flowers, Snake Root, &c., and will cure Malarial Fever if used as directed.

Beside an open Grave.

There are pleasant episodes in this life and sad ones. The sunshine is followed by clouded skies and cheerfulment by gloom. There is much joy, but there is also much sorrow and if pleasant friendships are newly found, old ones are severed by distance, by misunderstanding, by death.

When a man's young all his interests are centered in this world. His friends, parents, brothers, sisters, comrades, surround him. His thoughts dwell upon the future. He dreams of what he is going to become ere he reaches his prime. Life here seems to him a very real and a very pleasant thing.

But as he advances on the journey the scene gradually changes. The skies lose somewhat of their azure tinge and take on a cold, gray color. The road becomes more rugged. The friends with whom he started on the road vanish one by one and new faces appear, faces that he learns to love, but which can never supplant the old. Our early anticipations are not realized. Disappointment comes to check the spirit's ardor. Bereavements sadden the heart.

The memory gradually pushes to the front, taking the place formerly held by imagination. Whereas one formerly lived in the future one is now disposed to haunt the chambers of the past. There is no longer that enchanted brightness in the coming years that we used to know. It is the past that is bright.

There is no more pathetic picture in literature than that contained in one the last letter of Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, in which he compared himself to the lone survivor of a goodly company who, in the years agone, had started out upon an ocean voyage. But the good ship had been shattered by the rocks and he, the sole survivor of that merry crowd, now clung feebly to a single plank, and was evidently not destined to survive much longer. It is one of the inevitable incidents of this life that our comrades shall vanish and that we who remain shall long for their presence in vain.

Lonelier we become with each passing year. For the old friends are going. They are here to-day, apparently just as they have ever been, but to-morrow we will look for them in vain. They have heard the mysterious summons and have journeyed into that unknown land of which we dream much but know little.

The new friends drop into the vacant places and we greet them. But they belong to another and an alien generation. They do not understand our peculiarities as the old comrades did; there is no bond of common experience and adventure uniting them to us. They are very kind, but we long for the sound of a silent voice, for the touch of a vanished hand.

Memory is the regnant power with those of us who are in the sere and yellow leaf. Our old home, our parents, our schoolmates, the episodes of our young and ambitious manhood, these all come trooping back to us in moments of solitude, and especially on the day when we carry a cherished comrade to his last earthly resting place. At such a time we feel that the old familiar world has slipped away from us and that we have become strangers in a strang land.

Nevertheless anticipation remains after all. We believe—nearly all of us do—in the reality of that revelation which declares that man is immortal. And we feel that our friends will all be restored to us in due time. They have merely gone on ahead, and, in spite of our fears and doubts, in spite of our limitations of the infinite love of God, when we too have made that last journey, every one of our loved ones will be standing on the shining bank of the river to give us joyful greeting as we emerge from the cold waters. They are waiting for us. Let us comfort ourselves with this thought.—Altoona Times

The rattle of the rattlesnake consists of three or more solid horny rings around the end of its tail. There may be as many as twenty-one of these rings, which are formed by the failure of the snake to shed its entire skin.

THE EDAM WRECKED.

An Ocean Disaster in Which No Lives Were Lost.

Plymouth, Eng., Sept. 19.—The steamer Beresford has arrived here having in tow the trawler Vulture, of Brixham, and four ship's boats, containing the captain, crew and passengers of the Netherlands-American Steamship company's steamship Edam of Rotterdam, from New York, bound for Amsterdam. At 1 o'clock this morning the Edam collided with the Turkistan when fifty miles southeast of Start Point. The collision occurred in dense fog. The Edam foundered and the Turkistan was lost to view in the fog. The captain, crew and passengers of the Edam, who had taken to the boats immediately after the collision, were picked up by the trawler.

The Edam, Captain Brunsman, sailed from New York on September 5, bound for Amsterdam. She carried no cabin passengers.

London, Sept. 19.—Fifty passengers and forty-three members of the crew of the Edam have been landed at Plymouth. Captain Brunsman, commander of the wrecked vessel, says that the Edam was struck on the port side amid ships. The vessel, he says, had favorable weather throughout the voyage across the Atlantic and no trouble of any kind was experienced until the channel was reached, when a thick fog was encountered. A sharp look out was kept on board the ship and for a time all went well. Then one of the look outs suddenly saw in the fog a vessel bearing down on the Edam and gave the alarm. The signals to reverse the engines were quickly given and the order was promptly obeyed, but it was too late to avoid a disaster and almost immediately came the crash that resulted in the foundering of the Edam. An inspection soon showed that there was no hope of saving the vessel and the order was given for the passengers and crew to take to the boats.

Chairman Quay Coming North.

Pittsburg, September 19.—Word has been received from San Lucie, Fla., that Senator Quay will leave there on Saturday and arrive in Philadelphia by Sunday night. It is Senator Quay's present intention to come directly home to Beaver. One of the first things for his attention will be a meeting of the state republican committee, likely to be convened in Philadelphia in October or earlier. At the meeting Senator Quay's action in appointing an executive committee, with Frank Willing Leach as chairman, will be passed upon, and measures taken to promote the campaign throughout the state.

Another matter that lends to the state committee's gathering unusual interest is the fact that next June national delegates are to be selected, and very probably some lines will be laid down at the Philadelphia meeting which will indicate what policy will be followed by the Quay people in this matter.

Mrs. Langtry Robbed.

London, Sept. 19.—During the absence of Mrs. Langtry on the continent, a forged order was presented at her bank for her jewel box, which contained $200,000 worth of jewels. The box was delivered to the bearer of the order.

Mrs. Langtry returned home a few days ago, and to-day she sent to the bank for her jewels, when she learned that the box had been delivered August 24. Mrs. Langtry immediately drove to the office of Sir George Lewis, Q. C., her legal adviser, and informed him of what had taken place. Scotland Yard was at once notified of the robbery. Up to the present, no trace has been found of the missing jewels.

—Candidates Miller and Smith seem to be the only two that have so far taken into consideration the fact that there is a campaign in progress. Both of these gentlemen spent a good part of the week with the grangers at Centre Hall during the week, but neither of them has as yet reported just how many votes they made while there. But one thing is certain, Mr. Miller is a hustler, and as he has the people with him, there seems not the least doubt but that his election this fall is as well as assured by this time. Mr. Smith, you are a nice fellow; but we are sorry for you. The people want a change, and we guess they mean to make it.

American Prosperity.

It would be well for the American people to know and understand at once that this so called prosperous country, instead of being prosperous, is, (what would be called in a business man's affairs) on the brink of ruin. Now let us see if this is true or not:

If a business man kept buying more than he sold—if the same business man paid for this first in all his cash, second in his own bonds, third in the bonds of his tenants, fourth in his stocks and other property, and then again in his own notes and bonds all of which bore interest, what would be the result? How long would that business man be considered a man of business?

How long would his credit last? And if he then tried to run down the prices of his own goods, what would the people say of him. Would they not put him in an asylum? What are the American people doing in this line?

1. They sell bonds until the interest gets too big to be met with the balance of trade in our favor.

2. They sell more bonds, stocks, railroads, county, state, city bonds, stocks and other securities until we owe over 300 million a year for interest alone.

3. We employ foreign ships to transport our products and pay them 137 millions a year.

4. Our millionaires instead of spending the money they rob the American people of, rush off to Europe and spend another 100 millions a year.

5. We employ the Japanese and Chinese and the Italians and Hungarians and other unnaturalized people who send home another 100 million, all of which added together make 637 million of dollars and then we pay enough more in insurance to run this up to at least 650 millions a year. This is an annual drain upon the productive resources of the country over and above what we import, which is about paid for by what we export.

How long can the country stand thi kind of prosperity?

But this is not all. We still further rob the producer of wealth the man producing agricultural staples by compelling him to sell at the free trade worlds price.

We thus depreciate the price of wheat and cotton, our great wealth producing staples and while adding to our own disconfiture, increases the prosperity of our arch enemy England.

We go even further and reduce the price of our silver product so as to enable England to use the metal to compete with us for the worlds trade, for the great Oriental and South America traders of the world use silver, and our leaders are too big foo's (or knaves, which) to see that such a system is simply destroying prosperity and bringing the country to bankruptcy and

The Army of the Tennessee.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 19.—General Granville M. Dodge, president of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee, presided over the reunion of the survivors of the army of that name, who served in either the union or confederate ranks, which closed the proceedings of the first day of the dedication of the park. It was held in the large tent in the city, which would be an ideal place for exercise of this kind but for the fact that it is located alongside a railroad yard and the puffing and shrieking of switch engines is too often the only sound that can be heard twenty feet from the platform. The principal speakers were General O. O. Howard, of the federal army, and General Joseph Wheeler, the confederate cavalry leader.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.

BETTER WITHOUT THEM.

Friends of Saloons Threaten to Leave the Odd Fellows.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 20,—The representatives of the sovereign grand lodge of Odd Fellows are nearly through with their deliberations. The fifth days' session was devoted to the adoption of the reports of committees. A resolution providing that memorial pages of deceased members of grand lodges be placed in the revised journal, introduced by Representative Grasman, of New Jersey, was reported favorably by the committee on legislation and adopted.

The same committee recommended the adoption of a resolution making a change in the by-laws of the sovereign grand lodge to the effect that all grand bodies adopt a badge of uniform size and design, the color to conform with existing regulations. The new move does away with regalias. All reports from the judiciary committee on decisions of the grand sire were acted upon favorably.

The amendment to the constitution excluding saloon keepers and bar tenders from membership in the order, which passed several days ago, is creating widespread discussion and discontent in this section. Not a few leading members of the orde, several of over twenty-five years standing have signified their intention of resigning. [There is possibly no truth in the repot of widespread disaffection.—EDS.]

The Yankee Girl.

"How brilliant and mirthful the light of her eye,
Like a star glancing out from the blue of the sky;
And lightly and freely her dark tresses play
O'er a brow and a bosom as lovely as they."

The Yankee girl is not always blest with abundant health. There are unfortunately hundreds of Yankee girls and matrons who are dragging out an existence. They suffer from ailments peculiar to their sex. Life is a burden. Where can they obtain relief? The question is not hard to answer. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will bring the brilliant and mirthful light back to their eyes and the blush of health to their cheeks. It cures all irregularities, weaknesses, nervous and general debility, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and kindred ailments.

Thirty Miles an Hour.

The most interesting bicycle event of recent make is the motor cycle. If this proves successful it will, practically speaking, be one of the most remarkable vehicles for travel that has yet been known in this or in any other country. The pneumatic tires are very much larger than those of any other bicycle, the idea being to form a cushion that will not be affected by any unevenness, even large ones, in the floor over which the rider travels. Attached to the rear wheel is a mechanism which develops the power to send the wheel forward by means of a small, two cylinder naptha engine of about two horse power, which weighs 12 pounds. This bicycle, it is said, will go at the rate of from 25 to 30 miles an hour.

Local Department.

—The curb market Tuesday morning was not quite as large as it has been at times this season.

—Gospel Temperance meeting in the W. C. T. U. rooms every Sunday 2.30 p. m. Come and be welcome.

—From present appearances the rainy season is about over, and there are more than the grangers glad of it.

—The campaign seems to have opened and the local candidates are already out through the county fixing up fences.

—Peach season is about over, and now the only remaining fruit to fall back on is the apple. Fortunately, there is a fair abundance of this crop.

—The chestnut season is coming on apace, but we kindly ask all friends not to try to ring any old ones in on the opera house stage.

—Mr. S. A. McQuistion has just recovered sufficiently from a bad attack of pleurisy to be able to be out and around again.

—The funeral of Mrs. Michael Ward took place Tuesday morning, services being held in the Catholic church and interment in the Catholic cemetery.

—The curb market keeps up pretty large for this time of year, and there is always plenty of fruit and vegetables there for all who come.

Abram Harris, L. D. D., President of the Maine State College, is a very pleasant guest at the residence of John P. Harris, on Linn street.

—Mr. James McConkey will give a Bible reading at the W. C. T. U. Friday afternoon at 3.45. All are cordially invited.

—A mother's meeting will be held in W. C. T. U. rooms, Criders Exchange on Thursday next 26th at 4 p. m. punctual. Mothers affectionately invited.

—The Bellefonte gas company is still hunting for leaks, and judging from the amount of digging they are doing around town, they must be finding a good many of them.

—Next Tuesday evening is the regular evening for the monthly meeting of the Bellefonte Board of Trade. Make it your business to be there, if you are a member; and if you are not, be there anyway.

—Another effort is being made to get up an interest in the Centre county agricultural fair movement. It is to be hoped that this time it may prove a little more of a success than it did the last time.

—Master Joe Yolton of Water street, is the possessor of a genuine Southern cotton plant, which is now about to bloom. Those who have never seen the cotton plant will do well to call on Joe, who takes great pleasure in showing it to his many friends.

—And the cold spell has come, but it is not so cold as some were inclined to think it might be. However, we may yet get the weather cold enough for any of us, and then we will be longing for a little of the warm we have just been having.

—The Moshannon Banking company and the First National, of Philipsburg, are to be merged into one bank under the name of the First National. Both banks have been under the same management ever since the organization of the First National two years ago.

—The grange picnic is at an end, and now what will be the next attraction for the people of this county, is the question? If Bellefonters had only pushed the county fair movement last fall when it was well under way, we might now be entertaining about fifteen thousand people a day here, and that would surely be of some advantage to Bellefonte.

—The original sight of a man chasing a woman up one of the very hilly streets of Bellefonte was witnessed by the writer on Monday evening. We are not aware of the object, but do think that that woman would have been justified in giving that man about an ounce of lead.

—Reports from many of the little towns and villages throughout the county are in effect that there is great suffering because of the scarcity of water. Even Centre Hall where there is generally plenty of water, is obliged to go it a little slow in the use thereof. But here in Bellefonte, as long as the capacity of the pump holds good, we never know what it is to want for water. In fact, that kind of fluid is almost as plentiful here as governmental timber and it grows on every tree and bush within the borough limits.

—Several months ago the butchers of Bellefonte were always complaining because council did not give them a market ordinance that they could enforce. Then council went to work, got up an ordinance which pleased the butchers, still more pleased the man who drew it up; was agreeable to the printer who published it; satisfied everybody, even to the hucksters, as not one them observes it any more closely than before it was put into effect. But that makes little or no difference so long as everyone got just what they wanted, and the borough paid the bills.

SHOT A BIG PANTHER.

Is What Charles H. Watson Did on Saturday Afternoon.

It is not very often that hunters in these parts find very much game that is larger than squirrel, etc, but Charles H. Watson, the eighteen-year-old telegraph operator at Clarence on the Beech Creek railroad, found something on Saturday afternoon that was a good bit bigger than he was looking for or wanted to see, but he was equal to the emergency, as well as the size of the animal, and now he is quite a hero in the eyes of all sportsmen and himself too.

Between trains Charles thought he would go out in the woods and hunt for squirrels; he took with him a little squirrel dog and a breech-loading shot gun. He had not been out very long when he heard the dog bark a little ways off, and young Watson, supposing that a squirrel had been treed, started for the spot. But he was not prepared for the sight that met his gaze as he came into the underbrush where the dog was, for there on the ground, hardly one undred feet away crouched a monster panther, purring and lashing its tail in fury at the dog. Now Charles had frequently seen lions, panthers, and such like in shows, but this was a very different thing. However, he did not lose his nerve, although he was frightened until his knees trembled. Quicky removing the squirrel shot cartridge from his gun, he put in one of buck shot, and taking a steady aim fired. He was somewhat surprised to see the animal drop in his tracks, but an examination revealed the fact that one of the shot had penetrated the brain, killing the animal instantly.

The panther proved to be one of the finest specimens of its kind, measuring twelve feet from tip to tip. Charles at once went for assistance to help him get his game into the depot, and the animal's carcass was shipped on the next train to Rochester, New York, where the body will be prepared and stuffed. In the remembrance of the oldest inhabitants, this is the first panther killed, or even seen, on the Allegheny mountains for twenty years.

Swept by a Cyclone.

of approbation to the pinnacle of popularity, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has acquired a commanding position, which has occasionally made it a bright and shining mark for knaves, who seek to foist upon the community spurious compounds in the guise akin to that of the real article. These are mostly local bitters or tonics of great impurities, and, of course, devoid of medicinal efficacy. Beware of them and get the genuine Bitters, a real remedy for malaria, rheumatism, kidney trouble, dyspepsia, nervousness, constipation and billiousness. Physicians of eminence everywhere commend the great invigorant, both for its remedial properties and its purity. A wineglass thrice a day will soon bring vigor and regularity to a disordered and enfeebled system.

"The Stowaway."

"The Stowaway," which comes soon to this city, belongs to the class of fine, old English melodramas, amplified and intensified by the realism of accurate stage setting and ingenious accessories, built upon the regular lines of such productions, clever as to its plot and situations and more than ordinarily good in dialogue. The first scene is a street corner, or rather a "close" in a wretched quarter of London at night. It might be the Seven Dials of old days, or the White-chapel neighborhood of today. It is a good representation either and suggests with almost shudder-producing realism the possibilities in such quarters for the crimes which have within the past few years been horrifying the world. In "The Stowaway" performance this year are engaged excellent players, with the world-famed pair of reformed bank-burglars, "Spike" Hennessey and "Kid" McCoy.

—Mrs. Mary A. Irwin Conley, wife of the late Ex-Sheriff Conley, died at the residence of her brother, Mr. Wm. Irwin, near Jacksonville, on the 16th of Sept. Aged 72 years, 11 months and 17 days.

—On Saturday the Gettysburg College foot ball team will come to State College and play the first game of the season with the home team on Beaver field at that place. It will be a great game and as many Bellefonters as can should go up to see it.

—One does not hear very much nail works talk these days; but for all this there is no reason yet to despair, as those who have the matter in charge assure everybody that they have good reason to believe that the works will be started before a great while.

—This morning Abe Jackson, Joe Mahew, Sam Robinson and Ben. Williams, a quartette of Bellefonte's colored sportsmen, departed on the early train for Unionville where they went to put in the day hunting squirrel. We are not informed whether these little animals are very plenty at that place, but that makes no difference to the above named group, as they all are good hunters, and we will bet our last summer's hat they come home with their game bags filled to overflowing. But it's no use in anyone speaking for the surplus game as we are to have our share first.

Thursday's Storm.

Thursday's storm was the most terrific of the week, and the Granger's at Centre Hall must have believed the world was coming to an end. The sharp stroke of lightning that struck George Nearhood's house, was a most severe one and, although the house might have been saved, yet it was not owing to the scarcity of water and delay in the arrival of help. The bolt that fell on it must have been a mighty powerful one for Frank Bradford, the station agent nearly a quarter of a mile away, was knocked over at his desk; a Mrs. Wigley, of this place, and a Mrs. Showen and her son of Sunbury, who were fully 100 yards away, were knocked senseless and it was fully ten minutes before they regained consciousness.

When Nearhood's house was discovered to be on fire people ran to save its contents, for it was known that the family was tenting on the grounds. Imagine the horror of those who arrived first when they found the apparently lifeless form of Reub. Meek, a son of D. L. Meek, of Waddle station, lying out in the road in the mud. He was picked up and it was only by the hardest work that he was brought back to life. He had gone to the house to get a hatchet to release a horse that had become tangled in a barbed wire fence nearby and was on the porch when the lightning struck, knocking him clear out into the road. His one leg was burned from the hip to the ankle. Though still very sick he was brought here last evening and was taken on to his home. Many horses were knocked down by the same bolt but none of them were killed.

These accidents created so much excitement that everything else was forgotten, even to the collapse of Harman's big boarding house, which went down right in the midst of the storm.

The Granger's Picnic

From a general point of view, the grange picnic this week has not been the success anticipated. This was not because of any fault of the management, but because the elements were against them from the beginning. Every day since Monday it has rained, and up until Thursday the rain always fell in the morning thus keeping persons away who would have gone had the weather looked even at all promising. So that is safe to say that the attendance during the entire week has not aggregated over fifteen to twenty thousand all told. And then the exhibits this year have not been on a par with former years. This is believed to be because of the very high prices charged for privileges. But the exhibits that have been there are all of the finest kind. On the whole, we think that the experience of this week should certainly convince the management that the time for holding the picnic ought to be changed to a more favorable season of the year. Let it be held either a week or two earlier or a couple weeks later. But from the 15th to the 25th of September is invariably a rainy season, and the time should by all means be avoided.

Centre County's Wealth.

By the kindness of Mr. R. F. Hunter, Commissioner's clerk we give the readers the assessed valuation of all the taxable property in the county. By this official statement there are 14,524 persons taxable 195,471 acres of cleared land and 141,471 acres of timber land. The value of real estate taxable is $11,082,496; value of real estate exempt from taxation is $1252,087. There are 7128 horses, mares, mules and geldings over four years old, the value of which is $262,087. There are 7853 cattle over four years old the value of which is $115,670. The assessed value of salaries, emaluments of office, professions, trade etc., is put down at $474,545. Value of stages, omnibuses, hacks etc., taxable for state purposes is $4,527. The value of all property taxable for state purposes, which includes the above $4,527 monies at interest, judgments and mortgages, is $2,756,258. The total value of all assessed property in the country is $15,996,573. In the above figures cents are left out.

To Take Waters' Place.

Mr. George C. Watson, of the Cornell University Experiment Station, has been appointed Professor of Agriculture in the Pennsylvania State College, and Agriculturist of the Experiment Station, in place of Prof. H. J. Waters, who recently resigned to accept the directorship of the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station.

Mr. Watson was graduated from the agricultural course of Cornell University in 1881. Since that time he has had extensive experience both in teaching and in the practical management of his own farm. For the past four years he has been connected with the Cornell University Experiment Station as Assistant Agriculturist, and during a portion of that time has had entire charge of the instruction in agriculture. In 1893 he received from Cornell the degree of M. S. in Agriculture.

It is expected that Professor Watson will enter upon his duties at the College early in October.

Another Bridge Repaired.

The wooden bridge over Beech creek, near Beech Creek borough, which is owned jointly by Clinton and Centre counties, which was believed to be in an unsafe condition, has been strengthened by the construction of a new pier and the laying of a new flooring of plank.

Laxol is not a mixture of drugs. It is nothing but Castor Oil made palatable.

CRUSE—GARMAN.

The Modest Wedding of Two Popular Young People.

At 7.30 o'clock on Wednesday evening the immediate families and friends of the contracting parties assembled in the Episcopal church to witness the marriage of Mr. Charles Cruse and Miss Rebie Garman, youngest daughter of Mr. Daniel Garman.

Promptly at the appointed hour Prof. Goodwin struck the keys of the big pipe organ and the beautiful strains of Lohengrin's wedding march pealed forth, and at the same time the soon-to-be bride entered leaning on the arm of her father. They proceeded up the aisle to the altar where they were met by the pastor, Rev. Robert Erksine Wright, and the groom, Mr. Cruse. The bride was modestly attired in a traveling suit of brown, trimmed with velvet and jet, with a hat to match and in her hand carried a prayer book. The beautiful ring ceremony of this church was used, at the completion of which, to the strains of Mendelssohn's march, the couple proceeded down the aisle to the door where carriages were in waiting, one of which they entered and were driven to the Nye Bank station on the Central railroad of Pennsylvania, where they took the train for a brief tour to the eastern cities. They expect to return in about a week and will be at home to their friends at their newly furnished residence on East Linn street after Saturday, September 28th.

The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents. Of the happy couple it is not necessary to speak here, as they are both too well known in Bellefonte; the bride is attractive and accomplished and the groom is energetic and a fit partner for any lady. We tender our congratulations and best wishes.

Miss Bessie Rockey, of Altoona, is visiting friends in Bellefonte.

Mr. George Downing, of Alltoona, is at present visiting his many friends in this place.

Hon. John G. Love spent Thursday night in Tyrone the guest of his brother, Mr. H. C. Love, the hardware dealer.

Miss Nell Whittaker returned home on Saturday evening from Lock Haven, where she has been visiting friends for some time.

Mr. Cal. Horner, one of Centre Hall's finest young men tarried in Bellefonte on Monday on his way to Altoona where he will make his future home.

Mr. John Mowery, one of Altoona's genteel young men passed through Bellefonte on Monday to his home after spending sometime in Centre Hall, visiting his many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore and little daughter Catharine of Tyrone returned to their home on Saturday evening after spending a week at the home of Mr. Isaac Miller of this place.

Mrs. Albert Dunseth, of Chicago, is at home on a visit to her father, Rev. James P. Hughes, who has been on the sick list for some time, but is now convalescing, and will soon be able to be around as usual.

Prof. S. N. Christie, at one time Principal of the Lock Haven State Normal school but now principal of the Theory department in the Eastman College, at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., was an arrival in Bellefonte on Thursday evening.

Ed. Cowdrick, who for some time past has been so sick at Niagara Falls with typhoid fever, was so far recovered that he was brought home on Saturday evening. Ed. still looks quite bad, but the refreshing air of Bellefonte will soon brace up, and make him feel like a new man again.

Mr. Lee B. Woodcock departed on Thursday for Philadelphia to enter one of the medical colleges of that city for a four years' course in medicine. Miss Bessie Meek has taken his place at the Bellefonte Academy and will teach a couple of weeks until Prof. James P. Hughes has entirely recovered from his recent illness.

Mrs. Stewart Pearce and two children, of Conneaut, Ohio, and Mrs. Dr. Coolidge, and two children, of Scranton, were arrivals in Bellefonte on Thursday evening. The former are guests of Mrs. Stewart's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McGinley, on Lamb street, and the latter are visiting at the home of L. A. Schaeffer, on Curtin street.

After spending a pleasant ten days vacation visiting their parents at Fillmore and friends in this place, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKnight Jr. have returned to their new home in Philadelphia. Bob is connected with the customs service in that city and likes it so well that he says he would not come back to Bellefonte. But he must have been foolin'.

Mrs. Hastings, wife of Governor D. H. Hastings, with her daughter Miss Helen, and baby Sara, are at present visiting friends in Bellefonte. The duties and care of the governor's mansion in Harrisburg appear to sit quite easily upon Mrs. Hastings, as she is looking quite herself and is just as social as when she was a resident of Bellefonte.

Mr. J. R. Best, of St. Louis, Mo., with his son Albert, are guests at the home of their cousin, Mr. L. A. Schaeffer, on East Curtin street. Mr. Best moved to Kansas with his parents in 1860, when he was but nine years of age, and this is his first trip to the east. He is one of the firm of the Cotton Belt Lumber Co., and is in charge of the sales office in St. Louis. His son is on his way east to enter Harvard College, but will remain here until Saturday.

Fire Marshall Contest.

Editor Daily News.

Sir:—There seems to be a good deal of talk about the Fire Marshall's office, and from it one would be made to believe that, if a fire would occur here the town would be in ashes, while the firemen fought between themselves. In order to allay this fear I will just make a short statement of the facts as they are.

It has been the custom for each company to have the fire marshall and second assistant every other year and this was agreed to by the companies. Therefore, the Logans having had it last year it was the Undines turn this year; knowing this, the Undine company made nominations, they selected Frank Waltz, as fire marshall, and instructed three delegates to vote for him when they should meet the Logan delegates at their room in the Logan Engine House. The Logans voted for Harry Jackson, the Undines for Frank Waltz. Two ballots were taken each time a tie. The Logans then offered to vote for any other man the Undines would put up. The Undine delegates stated that they were instructed to vote for Frank Waltz. They then adjourned, the Undine committee went before the Fire & Police committe of council and after making their report the council elected Joseph Wise, one of the Undine company. Mr. Wise refused to serve and the council referred the election back to the fire companies. The Logan company nominated John Trafford and the Undines Frank Waltz, with the result that there was no election. The Undine and Logan committees went before council, each side stated their case and the council took a vote with four for Frank Waltz and two for Joseph Wise, of the Undine company. This puts Mr. Waltz in as fire marshall. I do not believe that there is a better fireman in the town. He has been Chief of the Undine company since 1893. The Undine company in that time has conducted their affairs in a way that they need not ask any outside party for advice, when they are looking for a candidate to fill an office. They have the reputation of never making a mistake in this way. I believe that at the end of Mr. Waltz's term the people will bear us out. In conclusion I will also say that I know from personal conversation with members of the Logan fire company (when I say members, I mean those who have been in that company for years) that they are perfectly satisfied with Mr. Waltz, in fact they told me that the same class of people, whom the council took the Undine company apparatus from in 1891, are the parties who are fighting Mr. Waltz for the simple reason, that he had the courage to go to the council in the fall of 1891 and report the gang. It was the report he made at that time that stimulated the council to take action, disband the old company and give it over to the other, of which Mr. Waltz was a member. For the benefit of the citizens, I will say that so far as the Undine company is concerned, their interest will be cared for in the future as in the past; no act of the company or Mr. Waltz will jeopardize their interest or property.

He Danced at the Wedding.

Last Friday we published a piece telling how obstinate Pat Toner was in refusing to give his consent to the marriage of his daughter Maggie to George Garis. But now the two young people have been married and everything is lovely. It appears that in some way Pat. was again landed in Fort Condo, and no earthly persuasion could induce him to give his consent to the union. But on Saturday the gentleman was releaseed from confinement and then made everything pleasant, and the young people happy by freely giving his consent to their marriage. And in the evening the wedding took place at the home of the policeman on Jail Hill. There were about thirty people present, and among them was none more conspicuous than Pat himself. After the ceremony there was a supper then a dance, and in this too Pat was a prominent figure, dancing with all the agility and apparent enjoyment of youth.

"Old Glory" at the High School.

There has quite a flag rivalry sprung up between the pupils of the High school and those of the senior grammar, at the brick school house. The boys of the senior grammar conceived the idea of hoisting "Old Glory" in miniature to the top of the old oak that graces the school house lawn, and on Wednesday evening after school hours, Albert Rumberger succeeded in carrying out the dangerous feat, and all the following day the miniature flag floated proudly fully ten feet above the highest limbs of the grand old oak.

The High school boys threatened to take it down, but the grammar boys stood guard until late on Thursday night. But on Friday morning, after the school bell rang, one of the High school pupils, Chas. Case, remained outside and succeeded in tearing down the flag the grammars looked upon with so much pride; and Ed. Keichline was so much mortified and chagrined that he actually cried about it. But on Friday evening Ed. gathered his forces together and again their flag floats proudly in the air, even higher than before. Now, Ed. says: "If anybody attempts to tear down that flag, shoot him on the spot." All honor to the grammar school boys.

P. S.—Since the above was written, we are informed that the flag has again been taken down by the High school boys, and just what the next move will be, it is hard to tell.

Hecla Park.

The Central Railroad of Pennsylvania deserves much credit for establishing one of the finest public resorts for pleasure in Pennsylvania along the line of its road about eight miles east of Bellefonte. Hecla Park embraces about 15 acres of land, the underbrush of which is cleared out, leaving a beautiful oak grove for shade. The land is all level with seats, swings and pavillions, all over the grounds. The Park also contains two lakes, the larger one is used for general boating purposes and could be used for bathing. The small lake contains two apparently floating islands, on one of which there is a covey of rabbits and the other is covered with beautiful flowers. There is also scattered through the park hydrants from which flows pure mountain water, delfghtful to the palate and invigorous to the system. It has already become a popular resort for picnics, as over nine thousand people from below Lock Haven have visited these grounds this summer and more than 15 thousand from Lock Haven and other directions.

The company will expend, between now and next years picnic season, four or five thousand dollars in improving and beautifying the grounds which will make Hecla Park the most popular and best picnic grounds in Central Pennsylvania.—Hornet.

Louisville's Big Dinner.

Col. Yeager, proprietor of the Brant House returned home last Monday from the G. A. R., encampment at Louisville, Ky. He speakes in glowing terms of the place and hospitality of its people. He says the dinner given in the public park to the veterans was an extensive affair, which lasted from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. and consisted of one hundred beeves; three hundred lambs and two hundred shoats, with bread, potatoes, coffee, cake and soup of which there were five kettles, each kettle holding 300 gallons. The name of the soup was "bungo" and the Col., pronounced it an excellent article. The seating capacity at the tables was thirty-five thousand persons, and there were seven tables full of Union and Confederate veterans and their friends. Over one hundred and ninety thousand persons partook of this monster dinner.

A Hint to Young Men.

Alas, how prevalent are those dread diseases which make young men prematurely aged, pale, listless, low spirited, languid, easily tired, forgetful and incapible, fill mad houses and swell the list of suicides; seperate husbands and wives; bring untold suffering to millions, even unto the third and fourth generation.

A complete and scientific treatise on these ailments, prepared by an association of medical men, who have had vast experience in their treatment and great success in their cure, will be mailed in plain, sealed envelope, secure from observation, to any sufferer sending ten cents, (the cost of postage,) enclosed with this notice, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Brakeman Killed.

A dreadful fate Friday overtook Brakeman Hamilton. He had dismounted from a Buffalo & Rochester railroad train at Big Run, near DuBois, to turn a switch. His foot was caught in a frog cap, and he was unable to extricate it. An oncoming train could not be stopped, and Hamilton was cut in two.
